The festival will close on the following weekend as “Teach Me How To Cry” is presented.
Quarter Replaces Semester

For the first time in history LaGrange College ill begin operating on the quarter system starting this summer.

This announcement was officially recently by Dr. Gordon M. Brown in chapel on Honor’s Day brought the world situation much closer to campus.

As Dr. Brown spoke of communicating with other people in another language, he helped us think of the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

From the thought of NATO, it was back to thinking about Dr. Brown’s Foreign Ministers conference on Berlin. Certain nations there were prepared to tax both the ability and the willingness of our diplomats to communicate with one another.

The traditional American policy of non-intervention in the affairs of others is gone. America’s future freedom is irrevocably tied to that of the rest of the free world.

Yet, despite the fact that the need for such an inter-continental tomorrow’s leaders. Obviously evident on our campus and in the world is the fact that it is apparent that the truest of all the en- tire. There is no better time for the youth of today to begin taking a vital interest in our foreign and domestic affairs.

We, the students of LaGrange College, and others like us, are the sons and daughters of those who have to be caught up in the fast moving world. The world is our neighbor.

Continuing with Dr. Brown’s theme, we have a greater understanding of other people can help others. Is there any better time than the present to see that this is not another reason for the youth of today to take a greater interest in the affairs of others.

This writer makes no claim to be an expert in the field of foreign affairs. Nor do I offer any pat solution. However, I would point out, time and distance are relatively non-existent in our fast moving world. The world is our neighbor.

This year it is the Goo-Goo Bird (see page three) that is more active role in learning of the rest of the world. The world is our neighbor.

SA No Bed Of Roses

The recent Hill-Top News article concerning the Student Government Association Council has brought forth a lot of reaction to the student body. Some agreed with the idea of praising the group — others felt that the Council had not done as good a job of criticism.

Weary way of your feelings lies there is still an obvious truth that everyone on campus cannot ignore. That the Student Government is no bed of roses.

Human nature being what it is, often we expect a great deal from our leaders. We will give them the support without which they cannot serve effectively. The incoming officers will have to cooperate from every member of the student body in order to function well. These are our responsibilities.

To fill the duties of the SGA officers is hard. Flowering words dealing with their representing the student body will be useless unless future actions show this to be true. It will be necessary for each officer to have his finger on the pulse of the campus. No longer will he be an individual representing his own biased opinion, but the services of many people, all with differing views and attitudes.

It is also unfortunate, but some students are inclined to think that every council member are clapped spies, trying to find things to report. Because of this belief, a person serving as an officer must always follow the rules that he has vowed to uphold regardless of personal feelings and attachments.

Dear Editor:

What is meant by school spirit? Is it only supporting the basketball games? There was a great deal of comment by several of the students attending these games to those who were not there. Do those people support other school events — social or religious.

At the recent WAA installation there were seven people besides the president, First Lady, and second places, 10 points. All the other students who have to be caught up in the fast moving world. The world is our neighbor.

Emily Eady Presents Recital In Dobbs On April 20

Miss Emily Eady will present her senior recital at 8:15 p.m. on the evening of April 20, in Dobbs Auditorium. Miss Eady is a member of the MYP at the First Methodist Church of LaGrange. Besides being in these three vocal activities, she is also a member of the Skull Staff and of the Alpha Kappa Theta Society.

The recital will be divided into four primary sections. The first of which will be languages. There will be numbers ranging from modern languages. There will be numbers ranging from modern

The second section will consist of serious to gay, then to a love song in French Miss Eady will be accompanied by Leonard Bernstein to all LaGrange College choromores. Friday, April 18 the seniors will take the Advanced Tests, which are designed to measure each student’s achievement and ability to work in his major field of study. Although no one student is likely to be familiar with the entire subject matter of any test, the scope of the test will be such as to permit an adequate expression of his knowledge and abilities.

Saturday, April 11 at 8:00 a.m. sophomores and seniors will take the Area Tests which provide for a comprehensive appraisal of the student’s orientation in three principal areas of human culture—social sciences, humanities, and natural science. When Area Tests were administered near the end of the senior year, the results are then used as general comprehensive for the evaluation of growth during the last two years of college or throughout the four years of college.

In preparation for the tests it is important to know that their characters are such that a special, last minute attempt to “cram” is not likely to effective. The tests are also designed so that the average student taking them will answer correctly only about fifty per cent of the questions.

"Goo-Goo Bird is a Legend At LaGrange"

By JOHN BORON

The Goo-Goo Bird is a legend. It’s only three years old, but it’s a legend. New students and faculty can’t appreciate the nostalgic way veterans refer to the conversation. Perhaps a few facts will aid posteriorly in keeping the legend straight in the centuries to come.

Dr. Wright G. Henry, Jr. was driving home from Miami where he had attended the annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges. His attention was seized by a small roadside shop in Florida exhibiting “second base concrete statue.” Among the things of interest, a bird bath, featuring a boy with a goose in his arms, attracted his fancy. “It was love at first sight,” he said later.

The boy and goose were then “migrated” north to LaGrange College via Henry Roadway Express, and placed in the Madison Smith Gardens next to Dr. Jennie Lee Brown’s bed. “Miss Epps did not particularly welcome the addition,” later, it was moved across the walk where its “caras” remains to this date.

But the boy and his goose did not lead an uneventful life on the Hill. Students began to affectionately refer to it as the “Goo Goo Bird.” From time to time it has migrated to all normal birds—should. For instance, it was once found buried in a ditch. Or, like the time the lady on the other end of the telephone line asked Dr. Henry if the college owned a statue of a little boy holding a bird. Dr. Henry replied in the affirmative and directed as she asked if it were missing. He looked out the window of his office and said, “Yes.” Then I would appreciate it if you would send someone after it; it’s in my flour bed,” she said.

Too, there were more obscure trips, like being in the trunk of someone’s car for a few days. Short range flights like journeys to the Town Girl Room were not uncommon, neither unnoticed by students, faculty, or administration.

It’s the prerogative of some to change their feathers, and the Goo Goo Bird was no different. The original color of white was the base of many colors during its three-year reign. Red, green, and yellow matched it with the seasons, though not always simultaneously.

Dr. Henry looks back over the years and reminisces with no regret. “The Goo Goo Bird has tunity to work up a good pro-

The Sports Bug

BY PAUL BUGG

When the final 1958-59 basketball statistics were released last week, Coach Hiram Reeves' LaGrange Panthers proved they could compete with the best in the district.

In national ranking the Panthers placed in three categories by finishing No. 29 in Field Goal Percentage, No. 45 in Free Throw Percentage and No. 50 in Field Goals. These statistics are based on reports from over 800 small colleges and are compiled by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau in New York.

Wallace Brown, leading Panther scorer, hit 52 per cent from the floor to lead the players with 52,982 attempts. In District 25, N.C.A.A., Wallace ranked eighth in scoring in the district with an 18.7 average, finishing ninth in free throwing with 77.7 per cent and seventh in rebounding as he picked off 10.2 per game.

Other individual statistics show Jerry Carden finishing ninth in Field Goal Shooting in the 100 to 249 attempts chart. Carden was the top Panther in the Free Throw Shooting category with 807 per cent, which was good enough for second in the district.

District rebounding honors was taken by LaGrange with 56.0 per game, a spread of 6 over their nearest rival, Wayne Copeland was the district leading rebounder as he grabbed off 215 in 21 games for a 16.0 average.

Teamwise the Panthers took first place in four categories. Besides team rebounding honors, the LC cagers scored the most team points in one game (120 against West Georgia), the most field goals in a single game (51 against West Georgia), and most team rebounds in one game (83 against Berry College). They took second in team winning margin as they averaged 77.4 points per game while holding opponents to only 63.1 per game for a 14.3 margin. These averages gave them second in team scoring and fourth in team defense.

IFC Decides Volleyball; Field Day Set

At last Wednesday's meeting of the Interfraternity Council, the college-wide tennis tournament was set up. The athletic representatives from the five chapters that have tennis teams draw up a schedule of matches. The IFC noted that each fraternity would play 4 games each rather than have a double elimination order for a man to become one of the players he has to climb the ladder ladder. The ladder has been set up alphabetically. The five negotiators that finished first on the ladder will be members of the team. The player that finishes number one on the ladder will become the available scrap of paper. LaGrange College's tennis team has begun practice for its second year in intercollegiate tennis competition. Strong contenders for the team are Jerry Brown, John Horton, Herb van Suylen, Andy Owens, Linda Woodson, Mary Horton, and Wayne Copeland.
