World Traveler Speaks To L. C. Art League

Mrs. C. R. Colley of Granville spoke to the Art League at its regular meeting last night. The active civic and religious leader spoke on “Art and Religion Around the World.”

Mrs. Colley has traveled extensively in most parts of the world, especially in Europe. She and her husband returned from a trip around the globe by jet last August.

A graduate of Wesleyan College, she is a personal friend of Madame Chiang Kai-shek, who was in school there with Mrs. Colley. The Granville Speaker showed the Art League a book of her friend’s own paintings, given her by Madame Chiang.

Mrs. Colley is a guest portion of the arts and is outstanding in all phases of Methodist church work. She is listed in Who’s Who. The League gave a reception for Mrs. Colley after the meeting.

Prof. Ezra Sellers showed his slides of the Brussels World’s Fair of 1958 to the Art League meeting of February 11. Mr. Sellers gave particular emphasis to the American Pavilion, designed by Richard Stone, and to the architecture of the Russian Pavilion. Mr. Sellers visited the Fair during his tour of Europe in the summer of 1958.

The Art League’s plans for a trip to New Orleans in April have been delayed due to the scheduling of the Graduate Record Exams on the proposed weekend. A new date for the trip will be announced by Tom Powers, president of the organization, in the near future.

New Sweetheart — Jackie Hartness receives congratulations from Paul Bugg and retiring Sigma Nu Sweetheart Gwen Reeves.

Tau Houseparty Plans Set

VARIOUS EVENTS PLANNED

The week end of February 26 through 28 is going to be a big one for everyone on the hill. This is the weekend for the houseparty.

There have been around four hundred high school seniors who are prospective students invited to attend the houseparty.

The final plans for the houseparty have not been completed, but there are several activities which we know will take place. On Friday night the Curtain Raisers will present a play, “The Diary of Anne Frank,” starring Margie McDonald. The play will be under the direction of Miss Irene E. Arnett. On Saturday night Sigma Nu will have a dance for the junior class. Then on Sunday afternoon the activities will close after the Zimmerman open house, where the Pastor of Hawson will be open for the first time.

Hartness Named New Sweetheart

Freshmen Jackie Hartness was named 1958-59 Sweetheart of Sigma Nu at the annual Valentine dance given by the fraternity last Saturday evening.

The new sweetheart was selected by a secret ballot of the fraternity members on February 9. The attractive Miss Hartness was chosen from Sigma Nu’s sister sponsors and that she will succeed Gwen Reeves of LaGrange, who has served in the position for the past year.

Miss Hartness wore a black taffeta dress with matching accessories for the occasion. A native of Blue Ridge, Georgia, she is the first freshman ever elected to hold the position of Sigma Nu sweetheart.

The announcement was made by fraternity president Paul Bugg at a pre-dance reception given for the dancing, after the introduction of Sigma Nu Alumnae of flows. In addition to fraternity sponsors Dr. Zachary Taylor and Mary Cheneys of Union College on February 5, 6, and 7 were Mary George Dean, Muriel Lacey, and Mrs. Margaret H. Cubine, and Mrs. Melvin B. Odom.

Sigma Nu has also made plans to sponsor an informal dance during the houseparty weekend.

Faculty Sets New Average

The scholastic average required for attaining Dean’s List status has been raised from 2.25 to 2.50 and will go into effect fall quarter.

According to Dean Bailey, this action was taken “in line with our standards and interests.” Whereas the Dean’s list last quarter included around 25% of the student body, the new scholastic requirements will cause the list to represent approximately the top 10% of the student body.

Houseparty Plans Set

The scholastic average required for attending Dean’s List status has been raised from 2.25 to 2.50 and will go into effect fall quarter.

According to Dean Bailey, this action was taken “in line with our standards and interests.” Whereas the Dean’s list last quarter included around 25% of the student body, the new scholastic requirements will cause the list to represent approximately the top 10% of the student body.

New Courses Announced For Next Quarter.

Professor Carlton Gimp, History of Art, has ordered announcements of two new sociology courses to be taught next quarter.

Social Science 355, Criminology will be a study of crime, its frequency, the public’s reaction to it.

The prerequisite requirement for Criminology is Social Science 266 or another sociology course.

Rural Sociology, Social Science 344, has become Rural Anatomy. Sociology. The scope of the course has been widened to include a study of both communities and urbanization.
Look Homeward, Angel!

Without the presence of those persons known as critics in our society, our lives would tend to slip into a miserable rut. Talent would not be raised, and we would bog down in the mire of satisfaction with the status quo.

To begin with, those who are the most patient and optimistic nature want to throw up their hands in disgust. But there is always a better day around the corner, and in the meantime, it's comforting to know that someone is always ready to listen to constructive criticisms and suggestions. Then, too, “you can always count on your friends to tell you the truth, even when you don’t want to hear it.”

So if you have something to say, speak out. It is not necessary to exaggerate or slander, because there will be plenty of sympathetic listeners without these tactics. And if you find that you are dissatisfied with things beyond reasonable limits, evaluate yourself and begin by denouncing LaGrange College and everything it stands for. If you find in yourself too many characteristics of our “constant critic,” tend to the home fires before you try to set the world—or the campus—on fire.

Among those who the pile there are a few excellent examples of the “constant critic” type. Instead of making a definite effort towards improving something, they are stirring up dissatisfaction with the fervor of thunderstruck false prophets. “Nothing is right; everything is out of line” is their theme.

Par be it from us to imply that life on the campus is always comparable to a well-run tea party. There are times when those of the most patient and optimistic nature want to throw up their hands in disgust. But there is always a better day around the corner, and in the meantime, it's comforting to know that someone is always ready to listen to constructive criticisms and suggestions. Then, too, “you can always count on your friends to tell you the truth, even when you don’t want to hear it.”

So if you have something to say, speak out. It is not necessary to exaggerate or slander, because there will be plenty of sympathetic listeners without these tactics. And if you find that you are dissatisfied with things beyond reasonable limits, evaluate yourself and begin by denouncing LaGrange College and everything it stands for. If you find in yourself too many characteristics of our “constant critic,” tend to the home fires before you try to set the world—or the campus—on fire.

Cut System

"Are you going home this weekend?"

"No, I would have to cut class to catch my bus and I’ve already used my cut."

"When did you use it when I was sick."

This conversation and many more similar to it can be a regular feature of any campus. Everyone seems to want and need more freedom in class attendance. The one thing at L. C. most unlike a college is the way everyone is in and out of class. Absences of the faculty are and have been concerned over this problem for some time now. Their surprise move last quarter indicated that they are aware of the problem. This new policy is really designed for only the most patient and optimistic nature want to throw up their hands in disgust. But there is always a better day around the corner, and in the meantime, it's comforting to know that someone is always ready to listen to constructive criticisms and suggestions. Then, too, “you can always count on your friends to tell you the truth, even when you don’t want to hear it.”

So if you have something to say, speak out. It is not necessary to exaggerate or slander, because there will be plenty of sympathetic listeners without these tactics. And if you find that you are dissatisfied with things beyond reasonable limits, evaluate yourself and begin by denouncing LaGrange College and everything it stands for. If you find in yourself too many characteristics of our “constant critic,” tend to the home fires before you try to set the world—or the campus—on fire.

Dear Professor Answerproof,

I borrowed my roommate’s new formal last weekend for the dance (she didn’t have a date). Somehow, when punch was spilled down the front of the dress and it left a huge permanent stain. How can I tell her what has happened? Will the still be my friend?

Dear Rependant,

The most effective way to have a considered transferring?

Professor Answerproof.

I am faced with one headache of a problem. A dorm student with a room near mine has a tuba. He insists on blasting the thing out of each. How can I ever get any rest?

Dear Tired Ears.

Learn to live on two hours of sleep per night. Apparently some students don’t know why the school has practice rooms.

Dear Professor Answerproof.

Don’t we ever have anything to rest around here but fried pork chops and browned chicken?

Dear Hungry.

Of course, silly! Quite often we have build-uped pork chops and fried chicken.

Dear Professor Answerproof.

I have a terrible time shaking for me to ever be on time for dormitories or chapel.

Always Late.

Dear Always Late.

You are not alone! There are many students faced with the same or similar problems. Perhaps you students could pool resources and build a ski lift from gentleman’s estate to the dorm.

Dear Professor Answerproof.

What do bears find to do during their six-month nap together in a dark cave?

Just Wondering.

Dear Just Wondering.

Professor Answerproof.

Wouldn’t it be more convenient for everyone if the faculty parking area was moved out of the parking but west of Pitts to space closer to Manget?

Dear Weary From Walking.

What’s the matter with you? Are you crazy or something? Don’t you realize how much it would cost to move those little faculty parking slabs?

Annie Young.

Dear Professor Answerproof.

Mr. Sellers recently spoke to the Art League on various problems in art. As he finished his talk he asked his audience to write in the back of the room and stated, “... and if there’s anything you want to know, ask me. Mr. Hotchkiss.”

Preparing to show his slides of the World’s Fair to another meeting.

(Continued on Page 4)
The LaGrange College "Pant- ers" defeated the Shorter College "Quintet" as the two teams met in a football game early this month. Co-Captain Wallace Brown paced the "Pant- ers" with a total of 22 points. The "Quintet" was led and Jerry Carden made their efforts good for 13 points. Buddy Gaines threw 11 points, and Larry Boswell scored the victory. Ottinger led the Shorter attack, with 21 points while Pierce had 18 points.

Both teams hit 75% of their free throws. LaGrange made 18 tallied out of 23 attempts and Shorter converted 24 and sank 19.

On back their own hardwood floor, the "Panthers" (74-60) took over their belts at the hands of the Barry College "Squirrels." L. C. won a healthy 10 point, 36-20, lead at halftime. High point for "L.C." was Jerry Carden with 30 points. Gene Holcomb hit 8 points, threw the free throw line and 4 field goals for a total of 12 points and Larry Boswell hit 9 points adding 19 points.

Barry College had 14 field goals and 2 free shots for a total of 25 points while teammate Grady Land scored 13 points.

The North Georgia "Cadets" have moved the trip from Douglas to fall in the first week of basketball play, LaGrange had 3 men hitting better than 30 points, accounting for the 101 points. Jerry Carden guided the ball to pay dirt for 36 points. He was followed closely by Wallace Brown with 25 points and Wayne Copeland with 23 points. Larry Boswell, Al Thomas, and Jerry Carden added 11 points. Al Thomas, Spencer Boyd and Bill Holcomb came through with 21, 22, and 18 points respectively to pave the "Cadets."
CAMPUS TRADITIONS

BY BETI LOWERY

What’s in a name? This question suddenly arose as we viewed the activities and clubs of LaGrange College in 1917-1918.

Such a courageous name as the Merryweather Klub could have no other motto than “Here we rest.” How faithfully this motto rang as the girls bravely smirched through wind and dismal twilight to breakfast each morning.

With twelve members enrolled, the Sister’s Club decided not to elect officers; there was too much rivalry. In order to maintain coyness among the various personalities, they chose for their motto “He who controls his tongue is greater than he that takes a city.”

The “Honey Members” of the F. S. T. totaled four, pursuing “To make them wild, simply wild over us.” This could be no more mistaken as the Lonely Hearts Club, or could it?

With needle, thimble, and thread, one dozen ladies in waiting formed the Doll Club, the luxury of scissors for cutting up.

Meeting in Dreamland, the six Dreamers chose for their flower: orange. The reason? Their song, “Do You Believe in Dreaming?” unaccountable discussion.

Stepping in were thirty-two Midnight Slippers, with their Lady’s Slipper Flower. As magical as Cinderella came this chart at the stroke of twelve: “Shhh, and the lunch slips with you, silver!”

Perching from the limb of “Any Old Tree,” the Nut Club met and indigled in their favorite occupation—cracking nuts.” With seven choppers, they had a cracking good time.

No college is complete without a Labor Union! In 1917, six girls formed such an organization, meet in the Slave Yard to fulfill their motto: “Here we rest.”

The two thriving literary societies were the Irenian Society, with an average of 83 members over this two year period, and the Mezzofantian Society, with an average of 49 members. The girls who joined the ranks of the society were for the most part disinterested in membership.

Other organizations included the Young Women’s Christian Association, Glee Club, Dramatic Club, Student Government.

Clubs such as these formed the club of the thirtieth century. 1917 met “where they could form the most to rest.”

In 1917, six girls formed the club, the thirteen tasters of Troup.” With seven delectable members, some existing with only four or five members. Some of these were Pat Sigma, Delta Phi Sigma, Beta Tau, and Chi Chi Chi.

The Tennis Club, engagedevored

new competition among the classes. How difficult it must have been to reply true to the motto: “Hit ’em every shot!”

The name Ga-Fly-Ky Club could be very deceiving, for its letters of origin were from “Chicago—Can-opener” to “Chief On-Look.” As connoisseurs of fine taste, they chose for their motto: “Eat as long as you have a taste, so nothing at all will go to waste.”

Living by the code of their club the thirteen tasters of 1917 met “where they could form the most to rest.”

The Border Club, true to tradition, was established because “more have locked arms to than to any other profession.” The 1917 Troup upheld their motto: “Arms and the Man.”

SoSo Club, founded the same year, followed their one dozen ladies in waiting. “This table,” she kidded, “is greater than he that takes the table.”

The only motto for the year must be “merry — re-merry.” With seven members, the Merryweather Klub decided not to elect officers. As long as you have a taste, so nothing at all will go to waste.

Wanted -- Someone to make up for the other thirty-one women in the world.

Margie McDonald temporarily left the Piano Room.

Margie McDonald temporarily lost the “One Prank” reformer with her remark about a wobbly table she was working with: “It’s beginning to ‘tremend my personality!”

The name Swanson’s van Raalte was the brand name in 1917, sixty girls formed such an organization, meet in the Slave Yard to fulfill their motto: “Here we rest.”

The Girls’ Association, Dramatic Club, Student Government.

Clubs such as these formed the club of the thirtieth century. 1917 met “where they could form the most to rest.”

In 1917, six girls formed the club, the thirteen tasters of Troup.” With seven delectable members, some existing with only four or five members. Some of these were Pat Sigma, Delta Phi Sigma, Beta Tau, and Chi Chi Chi.

The Tennis Club, engagedevored

new competition among the classes. How difficult it must have been to reply true to the motto: “Hit ’em every shot!”

The name Ga-Fly-Ky Club could be very deceiving, for its letters of origin were from “Chicago—Can-opener” to “Chief On-Look.” As connoisseurs of fine taste, they chose for their motto: “Eat as long as you have a taste, so nothing at all will go to waste.”

Living by the code of their club the thirteen tasters of 1917 met “where they could form the most to rest.”

The Border Club, true to tradition, was established because “more have locked arms to than to any other profession.” The 1917 Troup upheld their motto: “Arms and the Man.”

SoSo Club, founded the same year, followed their one dozen ladies in waiting. “This table,” she kidded, “is greater than he that takes the table.”

The only motto for the year must be “merry — re-merry.” With seven members, the Merryweather Klub decided not to elect officers. As long as you have a taste, so nothing at all will go to waste.

Wanted -- Someone to make up for the other thirty-one women in the world.

Margie McDonald temporarily left the Piano Room.

Margie McDonald temporarily lost the “One Prank” reformer with her remark about a wobbly table she was working with: “It’s beginning to ‘tremend my personality!”

The name Swanson’s van Raalte was the brand name in 1917, sixty girls formed such an organization, meet in the Slave Yard to fulfill their motto: “Here we rest.”

The Girls’ Association, Dramatic Club, Student Government.