Kappa, Gamma Phi restricted for improper rush procedure

The Pan-Hellenic Council has placed Gamma Phi Alpha and Kappa Phi Delta on probation due to improper rush procedure.

The probation will extend through the rest of fall quarter and all of winter quarter. These two Greeks will be allowed to participate in intramurals; however, no bids can be sent out from either Kappa Phi Delta or Gamma Phi Alpha until next fall.

Dr. J. L. Kovey, chairman of the Pan-Hellenic Council, submitted the following statement to the Hilltop News:

In a called meeting of the Pan-Hellenic with all members of the Council present on November 1, 1962, the Sigma Nu Fraternity brought against Kappa Phi Delta and Gamma Phi Delta the following accusations:

1. On September 19, 1962, Gamma Phi and Kappa Phi broke the restrictions of silence on our particular rush day by singing their fraternal songs at the time the new students were proceeding to their respective rush parties.

2. On October 28, 1962, Gamma Phi and Kappa Phi again broke the restrictions of silence by singing their fraternal songs before ten o'clock and being in their designated building, thus restricting the movement of all boys to get to the places of the other fraternities.

Upon the presentation of evidence and in deliberation of all arguments for and against the alleged complaint, the Council pronounced the unanimous verdict of probation for two complete quarters, yet being allowed participation in the above mentioned activities.

Emergency Food

By John White

Emergency food supplies have begun arriving and are being stored in their assigned area, says Mr. A. J. Cook, LaGrange College Business Manager. Campus chefs, in cooperation with Civil Defense authorities, planned a 2-week emergency menu for use in the event of nuclear attack.

"Purchase of the food," Mr. Cook continued, "was made with school funds, and it will consist of fruit juices, canned meats, canned vegetables, dry cereals, evaporated milk and powdered milk, and other foods that can be stored for an 18-month period. To keep the food fresh Mr. Cook stated that some of it will be used and replaced with fresh supplies.

What asked was any funds were available by the Federal Government, he said, "I know of none."

LC faculty holds discussion groups

Members of the LaGrange College Faculty are exchanging ideals and philosophies in informal faculty discussion groups once a month.

And the spontaneous discussions stimulate an interrelation of ideas between faculty in the various departments on The Hill, according to Dr. Zachary Taylor, chairman of the discussion group.

The discussion group was organized last month. Since then there have been two meetings, both deemed successful.

The faculty members meet at Room 319 in Mangels the first Saturday of each month. For several years, the discussion group has been in existence on the stage, according to Dr. Taylor. "We of the faculty recognized a lack that we had to our small college," he said. He explained that this lack came in that each professor here is almost an entity in himself as far as his special field goes. And the discussion group, where there can be an interrelation of specialties and fields, remedies this lack, Taylor said.

At the beginning of each session, certain faculty members present a "baby paper," or a talk aimed at naming, stimulating and discussing the thought process. Then spontaneous discussion follows.

The largest number of deficiency reports in the history of LaGrange College were sent out on October 30, and 201 different students and their parents were notified of inferior work being done in various subjects.

Deficiency reports are issued on the basis of the mid-term grades, "D," or passing grades, and "F," or failing grades, that are turned in to the Dean's office.

Numerical breakdown shows that 147 "D" deficiencies were issued and 128 "F" and "F" combinations were issued. Of these, 15 students were Pan-Hellenic, twelve students received three deficiencies, and three students received two deficiencies for their inferior work.

D', F's SET RECORD
ADVANTAGES OF POWER
In the last few weeks, the citizens of the United States have been constantly reminded that they live in a free country and that they should be proud of their heritage. I'm sure everyone will agree that this as a good thing, this freedom and justice. But I am also sure that there are some on the campus for instance, who would say that freedom and justice have a limit.

What do I mean by a limit? That's simple. The students at this college can be free as long as they don't abuse it. This is why it's that the way it should be. Unfortunately, our concept of justice is a bit warped.

We are all human beings, and as humans we are expected to do the things bit out of the ordinary. These actions, or whatever you want to call them, sometimes result in harm and destruction. Naturally, the wrong-doer should be brought to justice.

Just what is justice? Is it Gestapo tactics in an all-night house meeting, giving demerits for "general principles," or just plain taking advantage of power? If justice is to be done, it seems to me that those who are in authority should be aware of a little common sense when it comes to matters of discipline.

Man is an animal, and the animal's first natural instinct is to fight. The harder you hit, the harder he is going to fight. Why can't the Student Government see that the students would like to suggest to the L. C. faculty advisor, and the Hilltop News with Mr. Alan Thomas

INFIRMARY CHANGES
Recognition should be given to the fine changes in the present conditions of the infirmary. This year seems to be the first in the history of the college that we have had not one, but two registered nurses on campus at all times. As a matter of fact, it is the first time that we have any registered nurses here at all. Miss Linda Duggah and Miss Carol Sandoval are excellent. Not only are they administering medications, but also in organizing the whole infirmary set-up.

It was a badly needed change that came none too soon. As LaGrange College continues to grow, so will the need for additional health services. We not only have the nurses for these two registered nurses, but also the emergency services of the complete Clark-Holder Clinic.

The facilities for preparing special menus has also been added. The nurses prepare them. The interest of the nurses in the students was recently evidenced by the fact that they had eliminated some useful tips that all students should follow. The prevention of spreading sickness to other students is always a problem. These nurses are well-qualified and we, the students, should follow their instructions exactly as they ask. Three dollars is a small price to pay for flu shots if it will prevent us from getting sick.

We should all be proud of our new infirmary and let Misses Duggah and Sandiford know this by following their suggestions.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR
Restrictions for unpublished
By Suzanne Clark

The event that transpired on Wednesday, November 1, is a well-known by readers of this article: the sorority Kappa Phi Delta and the fraternity Gamma Phi Alpha put out on social probation.

I wish to present a side of the above said event which needs consideration. Who is getting punished? The sorority and fraternity, but also the unmindful people on the hill.

Indeed, it is we, the members of what may be termed Gamma Phi Alpha, who shall have to suffer. We, like all others, have only one weapon in our quiver which we wish to join. Kappa Phi Delta and Gamma Phi Alpha cannot bid for a year. There are others like me... who feel that in this event rather unpleasant feeling towards the college may result.

Indeed, this is not a social restriction to sorority or fraternity, but a ban put on persons... those who have definite feelings about what they want.

Greek spirit cannot be moved
By Sam Saxon

Thursday night, November 1 was told there was to be an inspection of my fraternity in Mange at 10:00.

I went there wondering why we were doing it, and why we were to have the inspection when we didn't have a brother put (ie) on social probation by the Pan-Hellenic Council. This surprised me and I wondered what the reaction of the others would be.

That reaction is what I want to tell all the world about because these conditions are important. This inspection reaction leads me to believe that there is not only a spark but a glowing flame of responsibility in my generation.

I saw file into that room in Mange a group of hurt, party bewildered, and extremely prideful people. They felt for the moment that they had been crushed squarely in the teeth, there was some bitterness and some resentment.

As our leaders spoken to us and told us the penalty and the offense we were being punished for, I told us that we must not blame anyone for our temporary hardship, but we must strive to do the best for the world we have always admired. I saw those bewildered people muffle their backs and hold up their heads. They became bound together by "spirit" and "comrade" and a better friendship than they had ever before possessed.

They filed out of Mange in silence with an air of calm and assurance about them. They ascended the steps and we were all let out of our love of life to all the world. As they sang the Alma Mater of LaGrange College to the campus and the world a feeling of joy and pride warmed my heart. Then a spirit that cannot be conquered welled up in them as they sang a spiritual! "Shall Not Be Moved" and fraternity and sorority songs.

A spirit that can take the inevitable adversities of life without gripping at life but singing their love of life in the very teeth of hardship is indeed a spirit that cannot be moved.

P. S. It seems to me a significant coincidence that November 1 was All Saints Day.

New tennis courts need our care
By Chuck Nixon
May not be my place to do so, but the tennis court party, I would like to suggest to the L. C. student body that we take great pains in preserving our new tennis courts. These courts are expensive and deserve our consideration in two ways. First, we should use them regularly not only for tennis, but also for some sort of improvement in the art of the game, in physical fitness, and in agility. Second, we should take care to treat the surfaces kindly with the net, not lawn, weather, or the courts.

It is often said that nut grass grows most abundantly in asphalt. This seems to be true if we look at the old courts behind Mange. We should take it upon ourselves to keep a sharp lookout for any grasses creeping in from outside the court. If we do not stop the growth, it will be embedded in the understructure of the court, there is little hope of stopping their growth. This growth may even spread underneath the surface and spring up a considerable distance from the original spring which was close to the court.

Tennis interest has steadily declined at L. C., probably because of poor courts, but no one is to blame, not lack of interest. Like to see tennis right up along side the Panhellenics. This may be accomplished if we show the college administration that we want a good tennis team, and that we will provide the necessary financial help as well as a worthy coach.

Boys ensemble
The Ensemble, a group for girls interested in music and giving joy singing, is not functioning this quarter. According to Dr. Anderson, the music department to try to get the Ensemble started again in the future, but not immediately.
PEOPLE TO MEET
By Ann McDonald
A LaGrange College coed called Guanatamo Bay "home" until two years ago is Helga Heimer. Her family evacuated from the Cuban crisis.

The Heimer family lived in a large ship. Fifteen hundred people were aboard one large ship, and they were ordered to evacuate. They were told that Russia wants war.

Just prior to the evacuation, we stayed to the last possible moment. Fifteen hundred people were told that an airplane was coming to pick them up. The whole family was picked up, and they were told that the new station had been compromised, for I can't believe that Russia wants war any more.

LaGrange College, each student receives a kit to join a fraternal organization. Why didn't they join a fraternity or sorority? The fact that they did not is certainly indicative of something. But what? That is a point for examination. The first and logical explanation is that they just do not want to. But why?
