LaGrange College boasts Birmingham thundermen and Shorter College Wednesday night in an attempt to secure that long-awaited victory. Southern is Dr. Henry's old alma mater, and invades the campus bearing the same team name — "Panthers".

After a slim loss last year, Southern boasts a "good offensive team and aggressive defense," according to Mr. L. W. Kilby, and will meet the most formidable rebounding opponent in Stuart Wells, a 6-3, 204-pound center who is described as an "outstanding rebounder." This game will look like Chinese checkers compared to Wednesday night. Southern has had one run-in with the Gold Wave this year, losing a close one 75-70.

The game will be the first of the Georgia Intercollegiate Conference match this season, and the Panthers will be playing for the first time.

Shorter looked sharp against LaGrange in Rome during the tip-off journey, but the Panthers have been known to upset the Titans at the conference on their home court.

This will be the final game before the Christmas holidays, and you can bet Coach Al Marlett wants Santa to bring him some luck.

Dr. Anderson With GMEA

A LaGrange College music professor has been appointed to help the Georgia Music Educators Association to study the problems and practices related to the recruitment and preparation of music teachers.

Dr. John D. Anderson, professor of music and head of the music department, will conduct the college faculty will be pianist, Mr. Deal, First Presbyterian; Mr. Everitt, First Methodist; and Mr. Omar Herbst, First Baptist.

Dr. Anderson said the final rehearal of the musicians will be Friday. "The spirit and loyalty of these musicians has exceeded our expectations," he said.

Music Department Holds Major Role In Messiah

LaGrange College is playing a major role in the community-wide production of Handel's great oratorio, "The Messiah," which is expected to fill Callaway Auditorium to capacity next Sunday.

Dr. John D. Anderson, head of the music department, will conduct the 160-voice chorus accompanied by orchestra in the well-known and ever-popular Christmas work.

The chorale will be joined in the performance by members of at least 15 different local churches who form the chorus. And the school's students, six are from the campus.

The performance of "The Messiah," Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p.m., will be presented under the joint sponsorship of the college, the downtown churches, and the LaGrange Ministerial Association.

Soloists will be Janice Christian, Dixie Land; Kathryn Merriett, Mary Snow, Jane Yarbrough, and Prof. Paul Dodder, all of the music department and Verona Lassiter of Newnan, and Russell Everett of LaGrange College.

Mr. William Deal of LaGrange College will be concertmaster of the orchestra, Miss Gabby, a graduate of the faculty college will be pianist, and David Hock will be organist.

George Gordon Handel's "The Messiah" was first performed in Dublin, Ireland, in 1742. Tradition has it that during the performance, the queen of Great Britain attended the premiere.

The event was a triumph, and the chorus has continued to be performed ever since. The song has been sung at the Royal Chapel, and the patio, were used to wise investments.

LaGrange College's total of approximately $3,000,000 is usually larger than institutions which are three times as large as LC. Much of the college's stability is attributable to wise investments.

Furthermore, as Dr. Henry has pointed out, the alumni are doing more to render financial support. Alumni contributions were over $10,000 last year and there are indications that it might exceed that this year.

Many of our campus improvements, such as pavidi, curbing, landscaping, tennis courts, student center, and the patios, were products of aid received by the college.

Dr. Henry feels that students will be encouraged to use "progressive education" — letting the children develop naturally. "This method does not encourage strict disciplines," said Miss Owen. "As a nation we have been spared twice of war on this fair land of ours. Will we be spared again?" Miss Owen said, "that we are not the same quality people who were spared because our morals and value judgments have changed. She said that America must revive interest in government and on society itself.

Dr. George M. Lattman, president of the college, said that the high school's OK, but the Panthers has been known to upset the Titans at the conference on their home court.

This will be the final game before the Christmas holidays, and you can bet Coach Al Marlett wants Santa to bring him some luck.

“So, when he gave me the usual hard-luck story about being sick, I just said, ‘That’s okay, you can make up the test any old time!’... What’s wrong with me, Alice?”

WEEKLY READER

Has anyone ever thought of a “Weekly Reader” for the insensitive college student? It might be called “Apathetic Almanac.”

The problem, and we think there is one, is the attitude, or lack of it, of the average LaGrange College student. It took five days of horrible tragedy to lure closed minds from their oblivion to the everyday activity of normal human life.

Two weeks ago a man was shot. His death, for one thing, caused many of the intellectuals on campus to think about life... and death... not as philosophy but as a tangible part of existence. The newspapers, magazines, radio, and television are filled each day with topics of current interest and importance. But how many on campus read enough “current events” to be able to discuss intelligently a topic of national, international, state, or local interest? We feel not many.

In this country we have the freedom to study, worship, talk, and think as we please. But to do discuss intelligently a topic of national, international, state, or local interest? We feel not many.

Of course, you have realized that we have too much spirit at the half time signal. I feel that this overflow could be used at other places. For instance, why not have cheerleaders at chapel? You know, to cheer the speaker on. Can you imagine the glow that would light the faces of the speakers if we all chanted, “Two bits, four bits, six bits, a dollar, all for Dr. Kay, stand up and believe!”

Or maybe have a delegated person in each dorm to lead cheers at house meetings.

Or better still, have a fight song for each academic course. You know, to the tune of “We Are the Panhams,” you’d sing “We’re in economics, economies are we, we never lose the good ole GDP. You give us the DoC, we’ll do the rest, Doc, we’re gonna run the world!”

Wouldn’t that be inspiring?

How about marching to history with “Mine eyes have seen the coming of Perry Leavell’s test...”, etc.

And as a final note, consider the impact of this little ditty as we leave for holidays or weekend.

“We love you LC, oh, yes we do, We don’t go to any school like we love you. And when we leave for home, we’ll be blue. Oh LC, we love you!”

I’m so excited I can hardly contain myself.

these things we must read and assimilate volumes of material on various subjects.

We have intelligence... or so we think. Might it be that this argument is happening in the world around us? What does the world think? And, above all, what do we as individuals think about?

An uninformed people is the antithesis of a democratic people. And we are a democratic people.

NUTSHELL NEWS

BY JOHN WHITE

The news of the death of President John F. Kennedy is still overshadowing the major news events of the week over that country and its national resources, which have been a prime Communist target for a number of years.

By the Red’s own account, it was for propaganda purposes, to terrorize Venezuela.

The terrorist underground in Venezuela has engaged in a number of spectaculars like last week’s kidnapping, to draw attention to its cause. The deputy chief of the U.S. Army Mission, Lieutenant Colonel James Chambers, was the latest target of the pro-Communist terrorists in their relentless drive to bring down the Batista government.

Annual Asks For Proofs

All students who have not returned their proofs for the college yearbook to a member of the Quadrangle staff by December 4 will have no choice as to which picture will be used in that publication.

This statement was issued by Jenny Dorouch, editor of the Quadrangle, last Friday.

If the proofs are not submitted by the date set then the Quadrangle staff will select the picture to be used. This applies to students who received their proofs on December 2.

The editor said that this deadline will be strictly enforced.

The following students have not returned their proofs to the Quadrangle, last Friday.

Theatre Shows Classics

It was announced last week by Mr. Bob McCain, manager of the local theater, that the second of the "World Heritage" series, "David Copperfield," will be shown on Wednesday, December 4.

McCain went on to say that the first show of the series, "A Tale of Two Cities," was a partial success. He hopes that the local college students will take advantage of this series.

Other titles of the series to be shown at the local theatre will include "Captains Courageous," "The Good Earth," "Juliette Cesar," "Little Women," and "Kim."
