New SGA Legislative Council Holds First Meeting of Year

By Fred Brown

Preparing to avert bargaining votes and cast their ballots, three LaGrange College students will join 275 students from 45 Georgia colleges Saturday to nominate their Republican candidate for President during a mock party convention in Atlanta.

Emory University will be the scene for the Georgia Collegiate Mock Republican Presidential Convention sponsored by Emory University's College Council.

Ted Hitchcock, John Lants, and Dave Corless form the delegation representing LaGrange College. The three electors will receive their directions from the student body Wednesday when a campus election concludes the college's population's Republican choice.

The three electors were chosen by the Student Government Association executive council to represent the student body of the College but the elector's choice of nominee will be governed by the vote of the students in the campus-wide election.

The purpose of the convention is to provide the college population's Republican candidate for President the opportunity to address a significant portion of the Georgia Republican electorate.

The Council added that a GOP convention was being held because there seems to be a little doubt of the Democratic nomination and the Republican candidates offer a wide range of political philosophy: from the conservatism of Goldwater to the liberalism of Rockefeller.

The purpose of the convention says the Council is to determine who the Republican nominee will be and to give all those participating a better understanding of the two-party system no matter which candidate he intends to support.

Raymond Moley, Harry Goldwater Jr., Rep. William Brock, and Donald Lukens will speak at the convention. Goldwater has lately been active in his father's campaign for the Republican nomination. Brock, who is key-note of the convention, is a Republican congressman from Tennessee. He was selected an "Outstanding Young Republican of the year" in 1963.

Moley is a noted speaker on current political thought and writes the "Perspective" page for Newsweek magazine.

Lukens was elected this past summer to chairmanship of National Federation of Young Republicans.

Quadraphonic Pictures To Be Put On Sale

All seniors may pick up their seniorInformal tonight between 7 and 9 p.m. in the Student Union and have an opportunity to buy campus shots that were not used in this year's publication. There are several hundred pictures ranging from 3c to 40c.

Underclassmen may have an opportunity to buy pictures between 7 and 7:30.

Honor's Day

On The Way

Tell your parents to begin making plans as soon as possible, urge May Day officials. A Queen has been selected to recognize those students who have made outstanding achievement in scholarship, leadership, the fine arts, or athletics. A picnic lunch will be served Saturday afternoon. At 3:00 p.m. the May Court will be presented and the campus beauties will be followed by the traditional step singing competition between fraternity and sorority. Supper will be available for parents in the college cafeteria.

Sellers Resigns J oins Ga. Staff

A LaGrange College professor has been named to head a new statewide program in the creative arts.

Earl Sellers, professor of art and head of the college's department since 1958, has resigned, effective April 14. He accepted a position with the University of Georgia Institute of Community and Area Development.

Sellers will be a specialist in the creative arts field — one of some 30 such specialists in the Athens—headquartered institute.

He will also hold the faculty rank of associate professor in the university department of art, but he said that he will have no teaching duties on the campus.

In accepting Professor Sellers' resignation, Dr. Walter G. Hen- cy Jr., LaGrange College president, expressed "deep regret at losing a man and teacher of this caliber from the faculty. He is going to a position of influence and usefulness in this capacity should he wield an influence to stimulate interest in art throughout Georgia."
Deficiency System Questioned

The past week has been a hectic one for LC students due to the fact that deficiencies are due in every class. Some of these tests had been pre-scheduled by forward-thinking professors, but in too many cases, students had only one, two, and even only one day's notice of these tests. This sudden and heavy burden of tests, we feel, was caused chiefly by the following: (1) deficiency tests are merely a number of solutions are at hand, including the coordination of campus organizations. The work of the first couple of weeks looks impressive. We will look for more of the same.

Saturday Classes, A Problem

On a number of occasions this year the college community has been faced with rather unpleasant decisions having to do with attending classes on Saturday, teaching classes on Saturday, or performing the necessary administrative functions on Saturday.

This appears to be one of those human dilemmas like eating your dessert first, downing your dinner, and then wishing you had another dessert. The entire college enjoyed a long Christmas holiday and a lengthy spring vacation but we feel that few people involved with the college will enjoy classes and administrative duties on Saturday next.

There are a certain number of required days for each academic year and the problem is to fit those days into the periods between September and June. The Hilltop News believes that the best solution to this problem would be to shorten by a day or two the number of spring vacations or make a slight extension in the terminal date of spring quarter.

The purpose of deficiencies, as we understand it, is to inform the student of the fact that he is presently failing a subject, if that is the case, and to inform him of this condition early enough so that he can correct it. We firmly stand behind this purpose and its motive. But we wonder if this purpose cannot be achieved in a different way.

The present situation seems to be of professors giving tests at the last minute in order to meet this deadline. This tendency is not only unfair to the student but is also a determining factor on his final grade.

Time, in this case, seems to be the primary factor. Even the most conscientious and determined student has only so much time in which to prepare for tests. In many cases students had two tests on the same day and another on the day after. Some students had as many as four tests spread over a period of three days, with only from one to two day's notice of the tests. The most optimistic professor cannot expect a student to achieve any kind of excellence in all his subjects under these conditions.

The Hilltop News suggests that this problem be examined. A number of solutions are at hand, including that of advanced preparation on the part of all professors. It will do no good to tell us an intelligent student nothing to do with the fact that he is not prepared to attend classes on Saturday, teaching classes on Saturday, or performing the necessary administrative functions on Saturday.

The new Student Government Association is scheduled for debate. The new SGA has shouldered its share of the load in the planning of the May Day program; committees are already being formed to re-work the student handbook and find president Tillison is holding true to his campaign promises by advancing toward the coordination of campus organizations.

A Plea To Stop This "Unwanted Destruction"

If you have noticed the strange rows that have unceremoniously been attempting to build a nest in the letters of the SGA building. Hall on the front of this dorm, you have seen a most determined group of workers. The birds have been at work since the beginning of this year. It was reported by Mr. Fowler, the campus engineer, that he had to "build this development" down at least three times during this vacation period and I have counted this same destruction on his part at least six times this quarter. Hall on the front of this seemingly unwanted destruction given in an informal interview, was one of the possible threats from the possibility of some well-dressed person getting hit from falling "objects" originating from this feathered group.

I seriously plead that this "unwanted destruction" cease immediately. There are a number of reasons why this is a very compelling plea. First is the fact that this "building development" has proved to be to the interest of student attention which, if left alone, will last throughout the next year or two. The present amount of wildlife on this campus is not a large one and it seems that we should be encouraging this type of building rather than destroying it. And, thirdly, just as the basic religious principles of this institution are against this "unwanted destruction," so are the basic religious principles of this institution. Let's try to make it so.

An Image Has Been Shattered

An old ditty is running through my mind these days. 'Tis something like this...

For the love of God, a nail a shoe was lost,
For the want of a shoe a horse was lost,
For the want of a horse a battle was lost,
For the want of a battle a war was lost,
For the want of a war a nation was lost.
All for the want of a nail...

Seemingly insignificant things are often deeply important.

A thought is a little thing but action without thought is chaos, and chaos in the situation of deficiencies is almost always destruction. It seems curious to me that destructive action takes an infinite time to commit in comparison with constructive action. That destruction was the work of a thousand or more cumulative years of Oriental culture. The Atomic Bomb was the culmination of thousands of years of Western science reaching back to the culture of ancient Greece. They were both materially destroyed in the scaring blast of one destructive split second. Destructive action is extremely swift and its consequence is awesomely irreversible.

Premeditated destructive action logically thought through is often horrid, but infinitely more horrible to me is the result of thoughtless action, that chaotic destructiveness that can obliterate in a few seconds the thoughtful planning and work of years.

LaGrange College has been in existence for more than 130 years. They have been good years and bad years, but in its first quarter of growth and the better than 30 years thereafter, LaGrange College has had a reputation for responsibility and ability. Any visitor noticing this "building" would be very impressed with these sparrows who seem to think it is a perfect place for their residence and have honored us with their choice.

It seems to me that support for this new development far outweighs the reason for its destruction in a great many cases. Mr. Fowler should reconsider his decision in this matter. I also hope that the student body will take up this plea and speak to Mr. Fowler about it at every possible opportunity. A pettight might even be in order if needed.

An after-thought, anyway, how many chickens and sparrows would act in any "way" to defend his front porch?

Civil Rights

In this Issue

Published in this week's edition of the Hilltop News are two of the titles to the Civil Rights Bill now before the Senate for debate. Only the public accommodations title and the fair labor practices title have been published because we believe these two to be probably the most important.

Culled from this issue are the titles concerning voting, education, public facilities; desegregation of public facilities; desegregation of public housing; public education; and non-discrimination in federally assisted programs.

I hope that some students will express their opinion on the bill to their state representatives. After all, this is the only chance we have to be heard in Congress.
A BILL
To enforce the constitutional right to vote, to confer jurisdiction upon the district courts of the United States and District courts of the several States in suits brought to prevent and restrain violations of section 2 of the Eighteenth Amendment, and to provide relief against discrimination in public accommodations and facilities, to authorize the Attorney General to institute suits to enforce the constitutional right to education, and to establish a Civil Rights Commission to provide Federal Employment Opportunity, and for other purposes.

TITLES I AND II
INJUNCTIVE RELIEF AGAINST DISCRIMINATION IN PLACES OF PUBLIC ACCOMMODATION

SEC. 1. (a) All persons shall be entitled to share in the accommodations and services of any State or local law or regulation, or in custom, or usage, or in a violation of any State or local law or regulation, respectively.

(b) It shall be an unlawful employment practice for an employer to discriminate against any individual with respect to his compensation, terms, conditions, or privileges of employment, or terms or conditions of employment, because of his race, color, religion, or national origin, or because he is a member of a labor organization, or because he is or is employed by an employer engaged in an industry affecting commerce, or because he is or is employed by any other person.

(c) Any person who, on account of his race, color, religion, or national origin, or because he is a member of a labor organization, or because he is or is employed by an employer engaged in an industry affecting commerce, or because he is or is employed by any other person, is subjected to the unlawful employment practice prohibited by this section, shall be entitled to recovery of his actual damages, or (2) to any amount specified by the Commission as a liquidated damage for the violation of any section of this title.

(d) The remedies provided in this section shall be in addition to any other remedies that may be provided by law, and shall be cumulative and additional to any other remedy or relief that may be available under any other Federal or State law.

SEC. 2. The remedies provided in this section shall be in addition to any other remedies that may be provided by law, and shall be cumulative and additional to any other remedy or relief that may be available under any other Federal or State law.

NOTICE OF STATE LAWS CONSISTENTLY APPLIED TO UNEMPLOYMENT PRACTICES OF CONTRACTORS WITH GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS

SEC. 717. If any provision of this Act of September 16, 1914, as amended, as it relates to any unfair labor practice, or which may aid in the enforcement of this title, is declared unconstitutional or invalid, such interpretation or opinion shall be a bar to the enforcement of this title or the regulation, or order issued under this title.

SEC. 718. The Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, from time to time, upon the filing of an application, or upon his own motion, suspend the operation of any regulation or order issued under this title.

SEC. 719. If any interpretation or opinion of the Commission is modified or rescinded or is determined to be invalid or of no legal effect, or (B) if after publication of any written interpretation or opinion of the Commission, or (C) if the failure of such person to publish such written interpretation or opinion of the Commission, or (D) if (E) any such unlawful employment practice or person shall be subject to any penalty or proceeding for any violation of this title, any such action, upon application to the court, as the case may be, to enjoin such enforcement or proceeding, or to restrain the enforcement or proceeding, or to restrain such violation, and not to exceed $10,000 for such violation.

INVESTIGATORY POWERS

SEC. 713. Nothing contained in this Act or the regulations promulgated hereunder shall be construed to require or permit any investigation or the making of plans which will result in discrimination in employment.

An exploration of the image of man as seen through the arts is being presented by the LaGrange College Student Christian Association and will continue through May 20.

"The Image of Man As Seen Through Drama" was the title of the inspiring and stimulating program presented by Dr. Max Boett at the SCA meeting on Tuesday, April 1. Through the use of a reading, Dr. Boett presented a program in which the life of man was traced from birth to death.

This exploration of the image of man was continued when Mr. James McLean presented a program entitled "The Image of Man: As Seen Through Art." James McLean presented a program which the student body had looked forward to with great anticipation. "The Image of Man: As Seen Through Natural Science," will be presented by Dr. John Stover, vice-president and Nancy Chambers, second vice-president; Carole Clonts, secretary, Beth Leonard, treasurer.

Kappa Phi Sorority

Winds Up Service Week
By IRIS DUNCAN

Kappa Phi Delta sorority just wound up its third annual Service Week in which they served the community, the college, and the world. The sorority's purpose is to serve the church, the community, and the world. According to the sorority, Kappa Phi feels that if only a few people come to meet them, the sorority is working toward the betterment of society and a better world.

The sorority began its annual week by attending Trinity Methodist Church. As a service to the college, the sorority contributed a joint program of teacher education which the committee will be made to the State Board of Education and, if favorable, LaGrange College will be granted approval to offer the program of teacher education in health and education.

The committee of educators was composed of Nancy Ellen Perkins, coordinator of teacher education for the state department of education; Dr. Garland Dickey, head of the department of health and education for state approval of its program of teacher education.

According to Dr. Shackelford, the college education department, the recommendation from this committee will be made to the Board of Education and, if favorable, LaGrange College will be granted approval to offer the program of teacher education in health and education.

Sigma Nu Gets Tie For First With 13-8 Win Over Pi Delt

Sigma Nu Pi moved into a tie for first place in intramural standings with Pi Delta Kappa last week by defeating Pi Delt 13-8. Pi Delt takes on winless Gamma Phi this afternoon in an attempt to move back out in front.

Pi Delt takes on winless Gamma Phi this afternoon in an attempt to only six hits in his second win of the season. Two of these hits were doubles and one was a home run. In the fourth Larry Burton blasted a four bagger to score two runs! David Trova asked a pitch to him into the street in left, scoring Jim Baggett ahead of him in the fifth inning.

Sigma Nu out-hit Pi Delt by only one hit, seven to six. But 12 walks and four errors made the difference. IP Delt put runners on via seven walks. Sigma Nu committed only one error.

It was the first loss for Chuck Stevens and the Pi Delt, their record now stands at 2-1. Aubrey's record is also 2-1, his one loss at the hands of Pi Delt in the season opener.

Knights Rip Goblins In Move Up, 17-9

By BILL ENGOLD

The Sigma Nu Knights used a mighty first inning blast to defeat the Goblins of Gamma Phi last Tuesday, 17 to 9.

Sam Gibson gave up three hits, four walks, and hit one batter, to give the Knights a seven-run first inning. The Goblins also committed three errors in this big inning.

The man of the day though, was Ted Alford of Sigma Nu. Ted had four hits for five times at bat, and he scored four of the Knights' runs. Roy Aubrey also did a fine job for the Knights pitching, allowing only two hits and five base runners in the last three innings.

The Goblins had nine runs on thirteen hits and three errors, while the Knights of Sigma Nu had seventeen runs on twelve hits and seven errors. The score by innings is as follows:

LC Drops 5-4 Match In Last Week's Action

By CLARK STONE

LaGrange College's tennis team was defeated by Columbia Theological Seminary in Decatur last week 5-4. It was the second loss for the Panthers.

Players winning matches for LC were Chuck Nixon, Jimmy New, and Billy Joe Hyatt. In singles play, Chuck and Glenn Lord teamed up to win La-Grange's only doubles match, coached by Judy Harris. It was the second loss for the Panthers.

The LC tennis team plays Emory-at-Oxford on Thursday. Wednesday's match was rained out due to the fact that three straight tennis matches have been washed out. The LC tennis team will play on the court that was originally scheduled for last week, but was rained out.

Berry College was rained out 9-0 by West Georgia in a match played last week. The best Berry could do was lose one set by 6-2, all others were six love, one, or two sets.

The LC-West George match for last Tuesday was washed out. "Even the re-scheduled matches are being rained out," commented Coach Judson Harris. Some effort was made to play Tuesday's West George game since they had already arrived on campus before it began to rain. But even while some futile attempts were made, the courts dry were filled with more rain began to fall.

As it looks now, the West George game will not be played until sometime in May.

In First Home Game

Despite the fact that it looks like they have little chance of winning on the road, the LC tennis team will try this week to get in two more matches.

Wednesday's match takes the Panthers to Oxford for a match with Emory-at-Oxford. Friday afternoon, LC books Berry College in a match that was originally scheduled for last week, but was rained out.
