Enrollment Hits An All Time High

Sunday, September 10, saw the newcomers to the LC campus, resimulation students, 611 transfers and freshmen.

Freshmen arrived from Georgia, Florida, New York, New Jersey, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Missouri, Alabama, and Pennsylvania. Transfers came from Georgia, Florida, New Jersey, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Illinois, Texas, and New York. Cutting and decision making students came from Georgia, Florida, and Texas. This marks the beginning of LaGrange College's 73rd academic year. The registration procedure was carried out by Student Council chairman and the campus on Wednesday and Thursday afternoon.

The official opening convocation for the fall semester is scheduled on Wednesday, September 27, at 10 a.m. in the college's gymnasium. The Rev. Dr. John G. Gross of Nazareth, Tennessee, general secretary of the Division of Higher Education of the United Methodist Church's Board of Higher Education, will be the speaker.

Promotions Announced

Three members of the LaGrange College faculty have been promoted to the rank of professor.

Two of the professors have also been elected as members of Phi Beta Kappa national academic honor society, and the other has been elected to the American Historical Association.

Dr. James L. Dodd will be the speaker at the formal opening of the fall semester on Wednesday, September 27, at 10 a.m. in the college's gymnasium. The Rev. Dr. John G. Gross of Nazareth, Tennessee, general secretary of the Division of Higher Education of the United Methodist Church, will be the speaker.

Services will be held at 6:30 p.m. Sunday evening at A & H Church with a two-fold purpose: (1) to observe the fourth week of classes with a special service, and (2) to observe the fourth week of classes with a special service.

The Sunday evening vesper service will be designed to produce similar changes to worship experiences and will have opportunities to experience worship not only in the conventional form, but also in new forms that will stimulate the whole person in a relationship with the Divine, Psalms, and the social sciences.

Sunday Night Vespers Will Challenge Students

"Pentecost and McCook on Religion" will be the subject for the opening of the semester, September 26, at 6:30 p.m. Reverend Dr. Charles F. Asbury will be the speaker.

The services will be held at 6:30 p.m. Sunday evening at A & H Church with a two-fold purpose: (1) to observe the fourth week of classes with a special service, and (2) to observe the fourth week of classes with a special service.

The Business Office has announced that the selective service form 109, which will be given to all students when they register, is due back at the office by noon Monday, September 27. There is a large draft to be held in October and failure to return this form on time may cause some students to be drafted.
Majestical blossoms, a horse and buggy, and approximately one hundred-fifty young ladies in middle blouses adorned the campus of LaGrange Female College in 1891. Among the freshmen was Louise Anderson, the daughter of the minister of the First Methodist Church of LaGrange.

Orientation included measuring for a gown and uniform complete with cap, which was to be worn only to town and to church. How proud she was of her uniform! It distinguished her as a girl “On The Hill.” The coat style outfit was accepted by a black hose with Le Roy collar in winter and by one of crisp white in summer.

Church going was the highlight of the week. A girl would never consider missing! Louise took her place in the drill-form line and fell into military step with her class mates until they reached the church. There a section was reserved for the guests. Not until everyone had left the church, did the students rise in unison and march reverently toward the hill.

A walk to town was a rare treat, but only when accompanied by a professor. Even at that, a girl would never consider glancing at a young man, let alone flirt. The consequences for such unlady-like behavior would result in a visit to the faculty room, since student Government was unheard of.

One could neither receive mail from boys nor callers who were not specifically designated as proper acquaintances by a girl’s parents. All mail was a carefully censored and a faculty member stood in the parlor as sentry on guard continuously.

Primarily the young ladies were at school to study, but romance added a sweet happiness within. Somehow, the girls discovered ways and means to fall in love under cover.

Despite the strict bars on friendship with the opposite sex, Louise Anderson considered herself to be quite fortunate. She participated in gymnastics daily and twice a week she was required to take long walks around the campus. In fact, there was neither a tennis nor a basketball program.

Each evening she marched in line from dinner to the prayer room for veppers and meditation. Following the service, she hurried upstairs to closed study hall until the ten o’clock bell rang for lights to be out. There was no fear of disturbance, any unnecessary noise was answered by a light tap on the door, assuring the occupant of no all too unfriendly visit to the faculty room.

Breaking the daily routine, Saturday awakened new activities in her social, musical and literary skill. Every girl engaged in the activities of a literary society, the most prominent being the Mesopotamian Society. However, did a girl decline the opportunity to entertain with her talents.

Although the girls were not allowed to indulge in movies or dance, the enjoyed concerts in Dobbs Auditorium. This undertaking was performed by college professors “free gratis,” and by outside artists for a nominal fee. However, the students distinctly begrudged the fee, for they had so little on which to spend their meager allowance. A typical shopping list might include stamps, stationery, paper, pencil, colored stockings, and hair ribbon. Why couldn’t a week be a generous amount of spending money for any girl, and she fail it a part of her education to spend it wisely.

Extra food was a luxury for which she would never think of spending her money. The food in the dining hall, served family style, was sufficient for needs and she never uttered the least suggestion of complaint. What a celebration occurred when she received a box of goodies from home! The reward of sharing with the lazier girls, was to have a spread with her hall-mates.

Mr. Nathan W. Smith’s wife acted as Dean, checking the halls at night and supervising the bath house, since there were no facilities within the school buildings.

The majority of the family being Smith’s precipitated the opening of the era of “The Smith Regime.” They made great contributions toward molding the lives of the young students. In memory of Malise Smith, who was a stimulating and inspiring contributor, a garden was planted and nurtured.

Following four years of intensive training, Louise Anderson graduated in 1894 from LaGrange Female College. Later she and her husband, Fred Manget served the Lord as missionaries to China.

The memory of so beautiful a soul lives even in 1965 on the campus of LaGrange College. A classroom building, dedicated by her husband and dedicated by Bishop Arthur J. Morey, is a monument to Louise Anderson Manget, who, despite “dutiful and lofty and a love more deeply”, that her life might reflect goodness.

This building on the LaGrange College Campus is a symbol of one who spent her college days preparing to give her life fully to others - a contribution unsurpassed.
The Third Annual Sidewalk Art Show will be held Saturday, August 29, 1965 from 8 a.m. until 7 p.m. around the Mall in LaGrange, Georgia. Spurred by the success of Chattooshie Valley Art Association's show, this one will annually feature invited artists and artists of outstanding merit.

According to Mrs. Merrell Hutchenson and Mrs. Paul Hammett, Jr., co-chairmen, the show will not be juried and the over eight thousand visitors who watched the show annually will find much varied media on portrait painting, oil, watercolor, collage, pen and ink, various types of printmaking, mixed media and pottery making on display and demonstrated.

The Chattooshie Valley Art Association, whose aim is to "encourage a greater appreciation and understanding of good visual art and to sponsor the juried Callaway Gardens Art Exhibition."

The Georgia artists exhibiting will include Ezra Sellers, Young Harris from Atlanta, Thomson Suller, Joanne Ellis, Charley and Aimee Hatcher, Constant Chator, Roman Chator and Frances Robbins; Carvallot, Dorothy Roach; College Park, Blanche Flanders; From Columbus, Dorothy Wacht, Tom Walton, Barbara G. Post, Johnathan Mans, arquivo Jenkins, Manford Meekw, Jr., and Fred Beldani; Decatur, V. Broadhead Smith, Nadie Warren, Marion Maddox and Leon Beavers Hamilton.

Dr. Phillips said he is "confident that you (seniors) will be highly successful as you enter this challenging universe of greater and greater ability, because you are liberally educated."

The well-educated person is one who, though free, exemplifies a disciplined mind as well as disciplined conduct.

The following commencement address, LaGrange College president Dr. Waight G. Henry Jr, conferred Bachelor of arts degrees on the graduating students. Other highlights of the graduation ceremony included recognition by Dr. C. Lee Harwell, academic dean, of Alice Faith Shephard as the top graduate in the class. Mrs. Harwell, a LaGrange artist, graduated "with honors."

A Jacksonville, Fla., insurance executive, Mrs. B. H. Monda and Thelma Fowler, presented the second annual "alumni distinguished service award" from the La Grange Alumni Association for her "continuous, unusual and loving service to LaGrange College in the areas of student recruitment, solicitation of special gifts for scholarships, alumni field work, and participation in college and alumni activities."

In the event of rain the show will be held in Callaway Auditorium on Dallas Street in LaGrange.

The Alabama artists will include Brack Walker, Robert Gibson and Conrad East of Auburn University; Frances Wadsworth of Dothan, Florence; Kathleen Maltzy Farrish and Beverly Dunt of Huntsville; Sam McGee of Gulfport, Mississippi; Sam Neil Wilson of Birmingham; Mrs. Tom Abraham of Pensacola and Sarah Wilson of Tallahassee and Marlan Freeman of Newnan.

Mr. George Creasy of the University of Chattanooga will come from Tennessee to exhibit his work.

The Chattooshie Valley Art Association invites the public to meet and question the artists on their various media or expression and the prizes of the paintings that will be for sale.

The event of art on show. The show will be held in Callaway Auditorium on Dallas Street in LaGrange.
New Chemistry Laboratory

Students at LaGrange College are looking forward to a new chemistry laboratory. The college's chemistry department has been aided by several endowments, and the new laboratory will allow for more students to be accommodated in the chemistry classes.

The new laboratory will be located in the Dobbs Building, and it will be equipped with state-of-the-art equipment. The laboratory will include a modern, newly constructed facility that will provide students with the necessary tools to conduct experiments and study the latest developments in chemistry.

Parking Lot To Be Completed in Near Future

The parking lot at LaGrange College will be completed in the near future. The lot is being expanded to accommodate the growing number of students at the college.

The expansion of the parking lot is a part of the college's efforts to improve campus facilities and provide a more convenient and safe environment for students, faculty, and staff.

As Scholarship Winner

Five freshmen and a sophomore have been awarded National Methodist Scholarships to study at LaGrange College during the 1965-66 academic year.

Scholarship winners are freshmen Kenneth Wayne Byers of Forest Park, Learney Kay Gl

leagie of Smyrna, Margaret Jane Lovell of Cartersville, Ronald Eugene McVoy of College Park, and Patricia Ann Trice of Marietta.

Sophomores Gloria Jean Foster of Columbus, a winner last year, has had her National Methodist Scholarship renew-

Announcement of the scholarships, which are awarded by the General Board of Education of The Methodist Church, was made locally by F. J. Henderson, Jr., director of financial aid and admissions.

About 500 such awards are given annually by the Methodist Board of Education and the nationwide program. More than 9,000 National Methodist Scholarships have been granted since the program was started in 1945.

Henderson said the Methodist scholarships cover most of the students' fees and are granted on the basis of superior academic standing, leadership ability, active churchmanship, character, personality and need.

Funds for the support of the scholarships are received from local Methodist churches on the basis of a church-wide offering on Methodist Student Day, the second Sunday in June.
New Faculty

An honor student at Emory University and Woodrow Wilson Scholar at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Miss Nancy Smith has been appointed to the faculty of LaGrange College's department of History by Dr. John B. Sheppard, a native of Charleston, S.C., who previously worked for two years as a research assistant at Emory. Miss Smith, a native of Danville, Va., also a native of Danville, Va., is a native of Danville, Va., and served as president of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

At Emory University he was a John Gordon Schuler scholar, a High academic distinction native to the University Bulletin, and was elected to Phi Kappa Kappa national academic honor society.

Henry G. M. Hall is the new assistant professor of French from Emory University.

Social Work Major

A new curriculum in social work is being established at LaGrange College "because ministering to the needs of people." In announcing the new institutional program President V. D. Harwell and Academic Dean C. Lee Harwell said the new major will be available this fall to students who have completed their first two years of college. The social work major, Dr. Harwell continued, is being introduced "in answer to the increasing demand for individuals in social welfare occupations by the present student generation." The LC president listed three objectives of the new major: undergraduate preparation for social work agency, preparation for community leadership and service as a committee member of a social work agency, the new program, to be interdisciplinary and interdivi- sional in nature, was recently approved by the college's Academic Advisory Council. It originated with a study by Dr. Charles F. McCook and other members of the Department of Religion and Philosophy. Several graduate schools have already expressed a genuine interest in the new LC major, according to Dr. Har- well. These include University of Chicago, University of Geor- gia, Florida State University, and University of North Caroli- na. Dean John McDowell of the Boston University School of Social Work wrote Dr. McCook recently "A student with appropriate personal qual- ities who completes the major in social work at LaGrange Coll- age with acceptable academic performance would be consid- ered qualified to undertake the gradu- ate professional program leading to the degree of Master of Science in Social Service at Boston University." The social work curriculum will include courses in socio- logy, the Social Science Divi- sion, and in psychology and in health and physical edu- cation in the Education Divi- sion. Dean Harwell said that a stu- dent in the new field will have an advantage — one almost unus- ual among small colleges — of studying for a major in several departments or academic disciplines. "Of course," Dean Harwell added, "the social work major will be built upon the strong liberal arts (general education) base required of all majors at LaGrange College." Eleven Named To Dean's List

Juniors and seniors in the social work major have earned academic honors for the Summer Quarter 1965. They are listed by name below:

A. M. Hicks Receives Doctorate

A LaGrange College chemistry professor reached the pinnacle of his education August 24 as the doctor of philosophy degree was conferred upon him.

The degree in the field of chemistry was awarded Arthur Meredith Hicks by Armstrong University during ceremonies in the university’s Cliff Hare Stadium.

Conceiving of the Ph.D. degree upon Dr. Hicks climaxed eight years of study and research. During a leave of absence from the LC faculty, he completed courses and language requirements for the degree in the Auburn campus. Then followed seven years of teaching chemistry at the college during which he completed the required research and dissertation.

Dr. Hicks’ research was in the field of organophosphorus chemistry. Common organophosphorus compounds include DNA and RNA of the living cell, gasoline additives, fireproofing agents, nerve gases and insecticides.

The research, under the direction of Dr. Gennady M. Kolosov, research professor of chemistry at Auburn University and an authority on organophosphorus compounds, resulted in a doctoral dissertation by Dr. Hicks entitled, “Some Chemical Aspects of the Phosphorus-Carbon Bond.”

Dr. Hicks said the dissertation is “a presentation of experimental evidence that a definite relationship exists between the length and shape of a chain of carbon atoms and the nature of the bond that attaches this chain to the phosphorus atom in a molecule of an alkylphosphonic acid.

Much information as this,” he explained, “is mainly of academic interest, but will also be useful to other chemists who carry out original research in the field of organophosphorus chemistry in the future.”

Much of the experimental work of the research project was carried out in the LaGrange College laboratories with special apparatus and chemicals supplied by the Auburn University School of Chemistry.

Dr. Hicks is a native of Auburn, Alabama and a graduate of Decatur Boys’ High School. He earned both bachelor’s and master’s degrees at Emory University in addition to special graduate study at Emory and Rutgers Universities.

For seven years prior to joining the LC faculty in 1950 as associate professor, Dr. Hicks was employed in industry as a chemist. He was promoted to professor of chemistry in 1964, and will complete 15 years of faculty tenure in September.

Dr. Hicks is a member of the American Chemical Society, Phi Lambda Upsilon national chemistry honor society, Delta Pi Alpha national German language recognition society, Pi Alpha chemistry honor society at Emory University, and Sigma science honor society at LaGrange College.

The LC professor was honored last spring when the 1965 college yearbook, “The Quarkes,” was dedicated to him. When Pi Delta Kappa academic fraternity was organized at the college, he was one of the faculty advisors and has been elected a lifetime honorary member of the group.

Dr. Hicks is married to the former Catharine Werner, a LaGrange College graduate, and they are the parents of four children; Claude, a LC student; Frank, a LaGrange High School student; and Joseph and Sue, both students at Unity Elementary School.

The Hicks are members of the LaGrange First Methodist Church.

Speaker at Auburn’s commencement exercises was Russell Park Drashtoff, executive secretary of the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges.

Dr. Hicks’ doctoral hood was placed on him by Dr. W. Van Parker, dean of the Auburn Graduate School. The degree was awarded by Dr. Ralph B. Draughon, president of the university.

BY BILL ENGLAND

Welcome to and back to LaGrange College. I know you have heard this a thousand times already, but let me add my welcome too.

Many of you new students do not know too much about LaGrange College, except what you've heard in speeches this week and what you have learned from talking to other older students. So allow me to fill you in on the LC sports picture.

Let's start with intercollegiate activities. LaGrange College is a member of the Georgia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. Other teams in the conference are Berry and Shorter Colleges of Rome, Georgia, Piedmont College of Demorest, Valdosta State College of Valdosta and neighboring West Georgia of Carrollton.

LaGrange College will field varsity teams in basketball, baseball, and softball, along with the major sport of this magazine, football. The schedule's only new opponent, Howard College o f Birmingham, is one of the Alabama opponents. Others are Birmingham Southern, Huntington, Jacksonville, and Abilene Christian College.

Mariotti's team will play a home-and-away series with each of the other five teams in the Georgia Intercollegiate Conference. Two games a side are on tap with two independents, Georgia State of Atlanta and Mercer University, and five Alabama schools.

The 1965-66 LaGrange College schedule:

- Nov. 20, Alabama College, LaGrange; Nov. 22, Jacksonville State College, Jacksonville State, LaGrange; Nov. 23, Howard College, Birmingham, Ala.; Dec. 6, Mercer University, LaGrange; Dec. 8, Piedmont College, LaGrange; Dec. 17-18, Augusta Christmas Invitational Tournament (LaGrange, Piedmont, Newberry and Augusta), Augusta, Ga.; Jan. 3, Huntingdon College, LaGrange; Jan. 5, Georgia State College, LaGrange; Jan. 8, Piedmont College, Demorest; Jan. 9, Shorter College, Rome; Jan. 19, West Georgia College, Carrollton; Jan. 25, Valdosta State College, LaGrange; Jan. 31, Merrimack College of Waltham, Mass.; Feb. 4, University of Georgia, Athens; Feb. 6, Georgia State College, LaGrange; Feb. 8, Mercer University, Macon; Feb. 10, Georgia State College, Atlanta; Feb. 15, Berry College, Mount Berry; Feb. 19, Shorter College, LaGrange; Feb. 22, West Georgia College, LaGrange; Feb. 24-26, Huntingdon College Invitational Tournament (LaGrange, Piedmont, Newberry and Augusta), Augusta, Ga.; March 3, Birmingham Southern, Birmingham; March 5, Southern Huntingdon, Huntingdon College, Montgomery, Ala.; March 11, Valdosta State, Valdosta; March 14, Mississippi College, Clinton; March 17, Huntingdon College, Montgomery, Ala.; March 21, West Georgia College, LaGrange; March 24, Piedmont College, Demorest; March 28, Shorter College, Rome; April 1, West Georgia College, Carrollton; April 5, Birmingham Southern, Birmingham; April 7, Southern Huntingdon, Huntingdon College, Montgomery, Ala.; April 15, Birmingham Southern, Birmingham; April 19, Southern Huntingdon, Huntingdon College, Montgomery, Ala.; April 22, West Georgia College, LaGrange; April 26, Valdosta State College, Valdosta; April 28, Georgia State College, LaGrange; May 2, Birmingham State College, Birmingham; May 5, Valdosta State College, LaGrange; May 9, Georgia State College, LaGrange; May 16, Valdosta State College, Valdosta; May 18, Georgia State College, LaGrange; June 5, Valdosta State College, Valdosta; June 8, Georgia State College, LaGrange.

Biography:

LaGrange College also has a system of intramural activities for fraternities and sororities, coordinated by the Men's and Women's Athletic Associations.

Intramural sports includes football, volleyball, basketball, softball, ping-pong, swimming, and tennis, for men and women, basketball, tennis, and softball for women.

If you've tuned in to our coverage of the season last year, you've no reason to doubt the talent LaGrange has fielded. The Panthers have won 40, while losing 32. Since then, the Panthers have been 30-14, and 10-7 in conference play.

This year, LaGrange College will return six lettermen as freshmen and will return the men's sports last year, read the Hilltop News for the latest stories.

The schedule's only new opponent, Howard College of Birmingham, is one of the Alabama opponents. Others are Birmingham Southern, Huntingdon, Jacksonville, and Abilene Christian College. Alabama College will open the Panthers' seventh campaign here on Saturday, Nov. 20.

Since basketball became a varsity sport at the Methodist College in 1952, LaGrange has compiled a 15-11 mark in 17 years before moving to "the hill" in 1965. Since then, the Panthers had won 40, while losing 32.

LaGrange will have six inter-

A new coach is taking the helm, but he has a good record to work with. Coach Al Mariotti has been at LaGrange for 17 years before taking the helm of the Panthers in 1965-66.

The schedule's only new team is to be announced.
