LC Joins Affirmation: Vietnam Movement

LaGrange College is joining the "Affirmation: Vietnam" movement spurred by students at Emory University, according to Dr. Harold Bibb, president. The project here is being organized by SGA president Ted Hitchcock. Faculty sponsors of the three-phase undertaking are Drs. Grover M. Bradley and Mr. W. Calvin Smith.

All of the student body regarding their views of the United States in Vietnam will be taken Wednesday night. By 3 p.m., LC students and one of the 30 groups of students, the movement is coordinating the writing and distribution of letters for the college in this area.

LC's annual Student Night, an interclass competition, is scheduled for Friday, January 21. Sponsored and regulated by the Women's Athletic Association, the event will begin at 7:30 p.m., in Deeds Auditorium. Admission is 25 cents per person, including all participants in the competition.

Each must last a minimum of ten minutes and a maximum of fifteen minutes, between each class presentation there will be a five-minute intermission.

Judges for Student Night are Mrs. Alice Kudlick, Mrs. Patsy Overcash, and Dr. John Harwell.

Skills will be evaluated primarily on originality and appropriateness.

The winner's trophy is now in the hands of the seniors, last year's freshman class.

Probation Reviewed By Academic Dean

BY J. L. GILBERT

The following information regarding probation was given to The Hilltop News in a recent interview with Dr. A. H. Harwell, Academic Dean.

There have been nineteen suspensions and two exclusions from LaGrange College last quarter. Students who have been suspended or excluded from LaGrange College are not permitted to return to the campus spring quarter. Exclusions for this quarter have already been acted upon.

Dr. Harwell says that many of the suspensions and exclusions were due to sickness, will be allowed to return to the campus spring quarter.

Students who have been suspended may apply for readmission after one quarter but students who have been excluded are not permitted to return to LaGrange College.

Freshman Mary Bowie has blood pressure taken prior to "Affirmation: Vietnam" assembly.

"Affirmation: Vietnam" is held to win the Red Cross Bloodmobile this year. Setting a new record for LC donors, the number surpassed last year's donation by thirty-seven pints, and this year's quota by twenty-seven. Of the one hundred and forty-two applicants qualified, forty were rejected because medically ineligible.

The opera is sponsored by the Three Arts League of Columbus.
The Southern College Sights
As Seen By A Blind Yankee

BY GLENN ALTERMAN

Amidst the confusion and typical chaos that characterizes a new school, I've learned quite a bit about "Our" LaGrange. Those of you who have been here for months, years, or decades, are not as aware of your school or yourselves as those "Blind Yankees." I claim not to have the cure of this "Institution of Learning," but, I do feel I've had one week to have a good "taste" of it. Read on, and see what these eyes have seen.

"Spirit," the Southern Gazette, was the essence for existence, "Loyalty and Honor," the Bobcat, was the essence of life. Is this spirit, loyalty or honor, a part of your LaGrange devotion? They're not on your class schedule, but they are a part of the school curriculum. LaGrange offers to its students more than an amiable opportunity for the spirited, the leader and the loyalist to exhibit himself. Yet, these people prefer to remain cloaked in shadows, and claim "boredom." LaGrange College could be the most spirited and student-oriented school in the entire South (and North as well) if only each and every student made a genuine effort to join and support a school government that only works "by and for" those who are interested.

The school and fraternity functions are very important. Yet, only a few attend, very, very, few. Where are the five hundred LaGrange students at the dances, meetings and affairs that are held regularly? Did they go home? Do they care? Or did they just forget that they are LaGrange students, entitled to all that their school offers? Aren't the students more than an amplecrop?
Dr. Dodd Talks About Teaching

BY OLEEN ALBERTSON

Q. Since this is your first year at LC, what are your impressions of the school and students?
A. This is my first experience teaching at the senior college level. Previously, I taught for three and a half years at a Junior College. The students at LC seem more mature than those which I've previously taught, and they take an active part in classroom discussion. Also, this is my first experience working with students majoring in sociology. Fortunately I've found this to be very rewarding.
Q. When giving grades do you mark your students on a competitive basis, or on an individual progress?
A. Actually, it's both. I have in mind what I feel is exceptional adequate work. I try to grade the student accordingly.
Q. Have you found your courses "The Family", an interesting and rewarding educational experience?
A. Of all the courses which I teach, I personally enjoy Marriage and the Family more. It is a course which is certainly an academic discipline. It offers a practical role for the individual student, The course gives me the opportunity to make a practical contribution to the lives of my students.
Q. Have you any suggestions which you feel could benefit LaGrange College?
A. I would like to see more students of a diverse cultural and racial background. It would broaden the horizons of understanding. I also feel it would enlarge the students social horizons.
Q. What do you feel about a student cutting your classes?
A. At this point, I feel that a student should not take absence if it will hinder the quality of his work. I do understand that every student will miss class on certain occasions. But absences must be kept at a minimum.
Q. How do you feel about failing a student?
A. The most difficult task I have in giving grades, I do more "searching" over this than anything else. I have never yet failed a student without real regret. I will fail a student if he deserves it.
Q. Do you plan on remaining at LaGrange, teaching the courses that you're presently teaching?
A. I plan to stay at LaGrange College and give my time and energy in directing the sociology department.

This wise and witty play, with its detailed dialogue, brilliantly evokes the spirit of the breakdown of the Renaissance in its char-teristic of Henry VIII, as so effectively portrayed by Ken Chapman.

Ranging over the game of the modern era encompassed by more than four centuries, the action of the play centers upon the complex relationships between Henry and his wives.

A statement prepared by the student organizers of "Affirma-vations" explains, "Recent months world opinion has been focused on small segments of the United States population who openly protest their government's involvement in Vietnam. These objects have strong voice to their convictions, and the nations of the world, friend and foe alike, salute them!" The strength of conviction of those who dislike the United States mission in Vietnam.

Panthers To Meet West Georgia Braves Tomorrow! Rivalry Still High

LaGrange College's cagers invade West Georgia's bright new gym Wednesday night, but the Panther's will be wary of a Braves' ambush.

The rivalry between the neighboring Georgia Intercollegiate teams has produced some hard-fought games in the past, and Coach Al Mariotti expects Wednesday's game to fit the pattern.

The Panther's will be seeking their ninth victory of the season and their third in the league. Last week's heart-breaking loss to Shorter (46-67) was the fifth of the year and the first in the GIC.

"We hated to lose to Shorter, but I think our boys found out that they can play right along with Shorter and the conference race is a long way from being over," Mariotti said.
