Opinions Differ On Parking Situation

By Tom Melson

At the beginning of this fall quarter, the student body was given a list of parking regulations, part of which said, "Although LaGrange College will make available certain parking areas except for two, the Dining Hall and the Broad Street Dormitory, and the reconstruction of the William and Evelyn Banks Library. During the school year of 1965, construction was completed and the result was two new buildings for LaGrange College, the Chapel and the President's house. The reconstruction of the Collington Building was carried out in 1965. Then in this past year the Fourth floor was added to the Chapel. All this construction and improvement has cost the college over a million dollars. One of the amazing things about all this construction is that all of the buildings except two, the Dining Hall and the Broad Street Dormitory, have been completely paid for.

All the construction to be carried out in the future is still in the planning stage. As of now no time-table has been set, but this fall definite plans are going to be set up. If it were assumed that LaGrange was going to grow until there were six hundred people living on campus and another two hundred students living in the local community, the following plan might be necessary to accommodate them.

New dormitory for men that would hold around a hundred and dorms for women that would hold a hundred and seventy would seem necessary. It is likely that the new dorms would be of an adjustable nature. They could be partitioned or sectioned in such a way that space could shift in the student population charged.

It is presumed that one of the new features of these dorms is that they will be air-conditioned.

A new student center will be erected and will contain such things as a book store, offices for the student government, bowling alleys and other game areas. A fine arts center is in the plans. Classroom, staging facilities, and storage will be included in the complex of buildings. The science department will be expanded and housed in a new building, Smith, which is being used as a women's dorm, is going to be remodeled, the wings in 1967, will be taken off and Smith will be its original site. It will then be restored in the Williamsburg style and used for formal entertaining and as guest suites. It has been estimated that all this new construction, the dormitories, student center, science building, fine arts facilities, and the reconstruction of Smith, will cost three million dollars.

One of the main problems faced by the Long Range Planning Committee is that the college has run out of land on which to expand. The Board of Trustees has recognized that this is a major problem and in giving serious thought to it. Much improvement and accomplishment has been achieved under the leadership of the administration and the trustees but it is recognized that the best years of the college are ahead.

COMMUNISTS INFILTRATE LC?

Does this shake you? Well, my friends, it should. Last week the Hilltop News received a letter from Ianational Liberation Front of South Viet Nam. Now in case you did not know the National Liberation Front, or NLF, is the political arm of the Viet Cong. In this letter we were asked to print articles "explaining our services." They also wanted us to pass on their materials to our student body. In addition to this, the letter also included a list of publications by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese writers. "The Patriotic Struggle of the Vietnamese People Against the U. S. Aggression in the Viet Nam." On the last page they made a plea for old articles to be sent directly to the Viet Cong and not the "paper government of Saigon." (Editor's Note: The RTN does not plan to aid the NLF. To the contrary, it plans to denounce any activity directed at this campus by the NLF. Letters to the editor on the subject are invited.)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Editor:

There is a definite need for better contact between faculty and students as a whole. I think that everyone has recognized this situation at one time or another, but very little has been done to remedy the problem. There are several ways to chop away at the problem. For instance, a monthly student-faculty symposium, consisting of informative speakers for assembly; that this committee be given adequate funds for this purpose; or, that recarded assembly attendance be abolished.

1. That immediate attention be given to student complaints about the campus book store; that the administration give immediate answers to student questions about extremely high prices; or, that an independent campus book store, owned by LaGrange College, be established.

2. That monthly meetings be sponsored by the faculty of each department at a time convenient to both faculty and students.

3. That a financial statement be published in the campus newspaper yearly, listing expenditures of the college.

4. That numerical results of all student elections be posted.

One of the most outstanding things about LaGrange College is the friendly relationship between faculty and students as individuals. I have never heard of any instances in which faculty members refused to help a student with a problem or who needed advice. On the other hand, there is a definite lack of contact between faculty and students as a whole. I think that everyone has recognized this situation at one time or another, but very little has been done to remedy the problem. There are several ways to chop away at the problem. For instance, a monthly student-faculty symposium, consisting of interested faculty members and students, such controver-

Libby Follows Tradition by Choice

Libby Jackson comes from a long line of LaGrange College graduates. She represents the fifth generation of her family to attend LaGrange College. One of the earliest graduates of this college was her great great grandmother, Sarah T. Cameron, who received her degree in 1844. Miss Cameron's sister married Joseph T. Montgomery who was the third president of LC from 1844 to 1850. Another great grandmother, followed by her grandmother, then her mother, continued the pattern in graduating from LC. Libby says the decision to attend LC was her own and she received no pressure from her family to go along with tradition. Beginning her college career with the Administration's cooperation, Libby finds time for outside activities and enjoys football most of all. She also has a rare hobby of "whistling through her flat."

During his sophomore year, he was a representative to the legislative council and the Pi Delta representative to the MAA. This year, he is again on the legislative council and a member of Circle K. Larry is an active member of his hometown church, the Roosevelt Methodist.

Larry feels that "the Legislative Council is doing a good job in uniting the faculty and the students about rules and regulations." About being a member of Circle K, Larry said, "The Circle K stands for scholarship, leadership, and character, three things I believe I can improve on."

Aside from his other activities, he is very interested in sports. For the past three years Larry has played football, basketball, and baseball, and is active in the football, basketball, and baseball teams. Larry's favorite professional teams are the New York Yankees and the Cleveland Browns.

Larry is a math major and says about his teacher, Mr. Jolly, "Mr. Jolly is the best teacher I've ever had, because he has the best interest of his students at heart." After completing college, he hopes to go into the air force, where he hopes to become a pilot. From there, he plans to go into commercial aviation.

About rating and extended rush he had the following to say, "I don't think that rating should be eliminated because it takes the shyness out of most freshmen and provides a baby-sitter medium between students." About extended rushing, he said, "I prefer extended rush because it gives freshmen a chance to know the fraternities and help solve the problem of depleting. In favor of expanding to regional fraternities because it will provide a greater tie between schools."

Larry enjoys good music and among his favorite recording artists are Johnny Mathis and Andy Williams.

Quantity of grades not only in selecting those who should be admitted to medical school but also in measuring a student's progress. There are numerous theories attempting to explain these rating findings. The most common one affirms that the over-emphasis on grades which begins when a student is in junior high school and continues throughout his academic career tends to destroy interest in learning for its own sake. John Holt, an educator and author of "Why Children Fail," observes that current school methods destroy love of learning by encouraging students to work for petty rewards--names on honor rolls, gold stars, for the "euphoric satisfaction of feeling they are better than someone else."

Hortense Helps

Dear Hortense,

I am a senior girl and I enjoy your column very much. I have been told that I am very beautiful and I take great care to dress neatly. I have a wonderful personality and my sense of humor is good. I have had many, many dates since I have been here and all the boys I have dated told me that I was charming and sweet. They all seemed to be madly in love with me but my problem is that none of them have called me for a second date. Could it be that my charm and my glamour has worn off?

GONGO MAD

Dear Mad,

The reason that you are not able to develop a lasting relationship with the opposite sex is that you are in "love." This love is a love of yourself which can readily be seen by the mere fact that you used the personal pronouns "my" and "my" sixteen times in your letter. You can't expect anyone to love you when you are so frankly in love with the image reflected in the mirror in your room. Get off the pedestal, girl.

Dear Hortense,

What kind of advice was: "Don't worry about your reputation ... reputation is what people think you are; character is what you know you are"? People think of one through the eyes of what they have been given to see. Isn't it better to show what you know you are? Rather than to show what you think you are? Character is the face you show others, and it changes deeper than the surface. My advice to F. B. S. I. is to be yourself, for, "when one sells principle for popularity he is soon bankrupt."

Dear Mad,

I would definitely advise against selling your principle. I suggest that you diversify your investment by purchasing more shares of Standard Oil of N. J. and also consider some municipal bonds.

Dear Hortense,

We're a bit tired of the boys who were on campus last year, so we'd like to meet some of the freshman boys in Pitts. However, since most of us are sophomores, among with a few matured seniors, we all take upper level courses, (I. e. no freshman); and we're kind of shy, so we don't hang around the Student Center. Our dorm is out of the mainstream of Hill traffic. As you can see, we are really in a bind. Could you tell us how to go about getting familiar with the freshman boys? Thanks for your advice.

Sincerely,

"The Boys"

Larry Horton takes part in many activities.

Having an older brother, John, in school here, was one of Larry Horton's reasons for coming to Lagrange College. He found the student body very friendly. Sigma Nu Doubles "Indies"

By Neal Morgan

Sigma Nu capitalized on intercepted passes to beat the Independents 14-7 and gain their first victory of the season. It was the second straight loss for the Independents, and Sigma Nu with a 4-1 record is tied with Gamma Phi for second place in intramural football. Sigma Nu showed its defensive strength early as Dan Eade intercepted Larry Smith's pass and ran 16 yards for the touch- down. Larry Smith, who threw to Mike Timmons for the PAT to give the Knights a 7-0 lead.

After receiving the kick-off, the Independents found themselves deep in their own territory. Trying to gamble on 4th down play, the pass fell incomplete and Sigma Nu gained possession of the football on the Independents' 1-yard line. Here Ron Brucoliere made his first interception of the game and gave the Independents the ball back.

Not to be outdone, Ken Massey intercepted another Smith pass and ran 12 yards for the score. Shumake hit Timmons again for the PAT and Sigma Nu had a commanding 14-0 halftime lead.

The second half was also one of defense. Neither team could sustain a drive without a costly interception. Only four first downs were made in the entire game; two by each side. The Independents did show some signs late in the second half of "making a game of it," as a defensive interference penalty gave the Independents a first down on the three-yard line. Larry Griffith ran the ball for a first down and extra point. The score then stood 14-7.

However, the Indians could only get the ball for one more offensive play and Sigma Nu held on to win the game 14-7.

Since each side did have their opportunities, the scoreboard has a few points each, and Curtis Macbee grabbed another. Shumake and Timmons intercepted one and two passes respectively to help the Sigma defense.

Panthers Make Progress

By Buddy Sullivan

Coach Al Mariotti is pleased with the progress the team is making as the Panthers continue to hold drills each day.

Mariotti feels the team has good speed and good shooting. In addition, the squad is beginning to work well as a unit.

The only real drawback to the situation is that of classes coming and going. Some of the players have late and late classes and are unable to make all the practice sessions in the afternoon.

"I have about eight boys who will definitely play," stated Mariotti. These players are of near equal ability and will form the backbone of the squad.

They are Tom Deckert, Nelson Boyd, Earl Holmes, Steve Fry, Joe Phillips, Robert Taylor, and Sid Swain.

Mariotti, however, is taking nothing from the rest of his team. Also showing up well are John Tilton, Mike Rainey and Mike Pullen.

So, with the November 19th opener drawing closer, the Panthers are shaping up into a fine team and LaGrange College fans can be assured that their school will be fielding a strong contender for GCC honors.

Mariotti said that any interested students are welcomed to attend the team practice sessions to see for themselves how things are coming along.
