Pike Interviewed, SGA Role In Campus Life Explained

By Arthur Dewar

Last week the Bill Top News interviewed Johnny Pike, president of the SGA, about the duties and privileges of the Student Government Association. Some of the more important and time-consuming duties of the SGA include communication between the student body and the government of universities and other colleges discussing current problems and procedures, year-round revision of the student handbook, SGA elections, and, in conjunction with the Dean of Students and the Business Manager, the appropriation of funds for student organizations and activities. Pike believes that weekly meetings of the Executive Council, biweekly meetings of the Legislative Council and Panhellenic Council, in addition to meetings with the various dormitory councils and the Judicial Council, when asked how much time he spent working for the SGA, Pike would say only that it's a lot of time.

Right now the SGA is paying special attention to the Southern Universities Student Association's (SUSA) meeting in Atlanta May 23 to 29. The Sophomore and Junior members of the SGA are also encouraged to attend so that in the following years they will have opportunities to know what they learn.

The SGA also promotes a closer relationship between the students and the administration through such activities as the President's Round Table Dinner.

Pike comments on the special administration for the concerns they have raised and their willingness to listen to the students. He feels that it is not only his duty as a SGA to implore suggestions upon the faculty council but also of the student body. In communicating with students' wishes, Pike says that he concerns himself with every student constituent. Association delivered to him in its official capacity as president of the SGA. He brings those concerns the proper administrative authority: Dean of Students, Business Office, Academic Dean, etc.

An exception to this procedure is for recommendations for rule changes, Pike used as an example ten complaints about the drinking regulations. He will not bring this subject up before the Legislative Committee because he feels that it is his job to prepare impromptu reports and not to defend or oppose any motion. Pike said, "I can't go making them up because the Legislative Council would say here I am changing and changing the rules.

Pike said that anyone who wants a rule changed at the Legislative Council representative.

The Legislative Council has the power to write the rules of the student handbook, subject to approval by the administrative staff only. Pike feared that the Legislative Council members had been busy electing the student body, "but if your class members are voting like ants, about twenty or thirty people voting for the whole class." The Legislative Council did discuss and revise the driving rule and women's smoking privileges. When asked, "Isn't it detrimental to have rules that are not ignored by the student body?" Pike said, "SGA will be responsible for any violations that say 35 mph keeps people from going a hundred. These rules keep things from getting out of hand. If I had to stop everybody who didn't wear a seat belt, it would be a lot of trouble, but these rules get the majority of people to wear seat belts and some are not so good." Pike also said that for the last two years the presidents of the SGA have been working to open the driver's license test for all students. But these rules get the majority of people to wear seat belts and some are not so good. Pike also said that for the last two years the presidents of the SGA have been working to open the driver's license test for all students.

The SGA role is to be the loop between the students and the administration.

"Hilltop Hilights," a new college radio program, made its debut over WTRP on Saturday, October 22. The new program is being produced by the LaGrange College Radio Broadcasting Association, a group of students interested in radio broadcasting and news editing.

The group had its first meeting on October 15, Kim Sirovica was elected editor and Jeanne Marie Blackburn was co-editor. The association was organized by David DeWald and Steve Perkins and works in cooperation with the LaGrange College News Service directed by Mr. Alva Thomas.

LC has sponsored radio programs in the past, but this is the first time that a regular program has been structured to produce a program. The program is presented each Saturday from 10:45 - 12:00 a.m. over WTRP.

The program will be given in WGP as a public service. Plans are made to expand to full hour in the future. Plans are also being made to have a show on an official college organization.

The program consists of news and events with campus personalities and faculty, campus talked, an editorial, a short devotional, and other special features.

The Association has a membership of about ten students, which is the pool of people that a regular series of programs has been produced to keep this going. It was suggested that it be replaced by a quality program. The association discussed the taking of annual pictures in registration line. The major complaint heard was that there was no privacy. People said they were uncomfortable giving personal information and one had no time for that last minute look in the mirror.

A reminder

Each of the Fraternitymen and Sorority members have a formal role during the fall quarter. But they are also allowed to participate in a variety of activities.

A reminder that all students attend all three parties in order to be considered as part of the Fraternity or Sorority. Every student must attend at least one of the requirements set down by the Panhellenic Council. But these will be sent out in February.

IN PRAISE

Realizing that many people will probably never overcome the shock of seeing the one and only Editorial in this issue of the HTN in praise of something, we decided to write it anyway. To defend any lawsuits which may come our way for treatment of extreme shock we add this word of caution before You read on-the following is actual: "freedom to express their views." Be reasonable.

(1) To the students: This letter took a half-hour to write. Can you grumble about nothing? When you are reading this, you are at work on these plans presented in our last Issue on the projects, which, by the way, were outlined in our last issue on the very front page. The Administration is at work on these plans presently.

(2) About No. 1 — The HTN realizes that this comes first and takes money. This is why we suggested those things which do not take too much money. These things can be done now, what you refer to as long-range projects, which, by the way, were outlined in our last issue on the very front page. The Administration is at work on these plans presently.

(3) About No. 2 — Upon closer reading of the suggestion in question, you will find that nothing was said about "removing many of the regulations" or "freedom to express themselves sexually," be reasonable.

(4) About No. 3 — I appreciate your feelings and agree to the fullest extent.

Dear Burned Candle,

If you don't know by now, baby, you're already sick!

Dear Hortense,

How would you go about telling your best friend that she is gross, outrageous, repulsive, loudmouthed, dirty, and dirty? She seems to be hurting her feelings?

Wordless

Dear Wordless,

Your problem is that you don't have enough nerve to say that to her face, right?

Dear Hortense,

I'm an innocent young maid who has never been kissed, what should I do?

Just a Handshake

Dear True Blue(??),

I be true to her or him. In other words, should I find myself in the predicament of having snowed one of them? Should I already have a date with him? It might be my back you're shaking. Therefore, no comment.

Dear Hortense,

Please help! I made the mistake of telling my girl back home about Homecoming, and she insists that she's coming to be my date. The problem is that I already have a date with a girl here, and I don't want to break either date. Both girls are really terrific, and it would be a shame to lose either of them. Should I play sick and not go at all?

Burned Candle

Dear Hortense,

I already have. I like his gold like glue to my guy. I don't want to hurt him anymore than I have. I think that the boy and I would really get along great!

True Blue(??)

Dear True Blue(??),

If I tell you not to date him, you'll probably kick yourself for not doing so. And if I tell you that you ought to date him, it might be my back you're shaking. Therefore, no comment.

Dear Hortense,

I love him, too, but I'm stuck in the predicament of having snowed one of them. Should I already have a date with him? It might be my back you're shaking. Therefore, no comment.

Dear Hortense,

Can I do anything to help you? I find myself in the predicament of having snowed one of them. Should I already have a date with him? It might be my back you're shaking. Therefore, no comment.

Dear Hortense,

If I tell you not to date him, you'll probably kick yourself for not doing so. And if I tell you that you ought to date him, it might be my back you're shaking. Therefore, no comment.

Dear Hortense,

I'm the place of loyalty in the dating situation! I have a chance, yet important to me. What should I do?

Dear Hortense,

You Probably won't even have one, yet important to me. What should I do?

Dear Hortense,

My problem is a common one, yet important to me. What should I do?

Dear Hortense,

The situation I am in causes me deep concern. I have been the biggest snakes en campus; all years and now have his pin. All Liked Out

Dear Hiked,

Can I do anything to help you? I find myself in the predicament of having snowed one of them. Should I already have a date with him? It might be my back you're shaking. Therefore, no comment.

Pi Delta Blasts Sigma Nu

By Buddy Sullivan, Sports Editor

Pi Delta Kappa took advantage of four intercepted passes last Wednesday to narrow to Sigma Nu, 23-0, in intramural football. Sigma Nu quarterback Leroy Shumake and Jimmy Trerell attempted a total of 27 passes in the contest, with four being picked off.

The Gators opened the scoring early with Neal Morgan going 12 yards up the middle and Larry Horton booting the game's only PAT.

Following a Sigma Nu punt, Pi Delt hit again, this time on a 22-yard pass play from Horton to Larry Goodman. Sigma Nu threatened at the end of the first half when Jim Duster's punt went straight up but failed to punch one across. A series of penalties against Pi Delt stunted Sigma Nu to open the second half. Shumake hit the Timmans for a first down, but Dusters halted the drive by intercepting and going all the way for Pi Delt's third touchdown.

Following the kickoff, Gary Roberts intercepted to give the Gators the ball again. Horton went up the middle for 15 yards, followed by a 15-yard Morgan run. On the next play, Horton hit Goodman for the final score of the game.

With plays running out, Sigma Nu made a final effort to get on the scoring column. The Gators had a fine run to the one-yard line but on the next play, the Pi Delt line rose up and held Sigma Nu for no gain. A series of penalties followed until Sigma Nu finally ran out of downs and were still scoreless. Oddly enough, the statistics were fairly even, but, again, the Gator defense made the difference. The victory over Pi Delt is a sweep of the league and strengthened its hold on first place in intramural standings.

Robin Poley receives pass from James Crews for touchdown.

Alpha Phi's team is in first place in intramural volleyball.

In the Black Division the story was the same with the Alpha Phi's winning 14-3 and 14-2. The scoring for the freshmen was: Peggy Cobb, 2 in the first game; Patsy White, 2 in the second; and Barbara Gray, 1 in the first game and 2 in the second; Paty Mills, 2 and 1; Penny Roy, 2; and Doris Mason, 2.

The Delta Kappa team did the same with the Alpha Phi's winning 14-3 and 14-2. The scoring for the freshmen was: Peggy Cobb, 2 in the first game; Patsy White, 2 in the second; and Barbara Gray, 1 in the first game and 2 in the second. The Alpha Phi team is in third place in the intramural volleyball.
