Choralaires To Perform March 2

Eighteen To Be In Contest

BY ARTHUR DEWAR

A variety of choral music will be performed by the LaGrange College Choralaires during a concert at the college on Thursday evening, March 2.

The 44-voice choral group, under the direction of Paul W. Douglass, will present a program which will include works by Tchaikovsky, Brahms, and Stravinsky, among others. The concert will feature a variety of choral pieces, including works by composers such as Brahms, Mendelssohn, and Tchaikovsky.

The Choralaires are the college's premier choral group, and their performances are always highly anticipated. The group is known for its precision, musicality, and dedication to excellence.

Ticket information for the concert is available on the college's website, and tickets can be purchased at the door on the night of the performance.

The Choralaires' concert is part of a larger festival that will take place on the campus of LaGrange College, with other events scheduled throughout the week.
The freshmen arrive on the college campus in the fall full of confidence and the knowledge that college is going to be exciting. It is here that they will find the new ideas, new hopes, the new goals of their life. It is here that he will find unlimited opportunities for leadership, for developing the tools that he will need to fight hypocrisy, to stand against the dullness and to change the world; it is here that he will find all the support he will need against the professors' academic barriers. Instead he finds himself dulling the edge of his enthusiasm against a rock-hard wall of apathy, or perhaps it would be more accurate to say that he finds himself stuck in a spongy mass that, no matter how much it might be pushed, he can never completely break through. The weekly test or the term paper becomes more important than the end they are trying to achieve—to help mold himself with confidence and the knowledge that college is going to be exciting.

Dear Hortense,

Last week I suddenly fell out of the washroom and hurt my ankle. My fraternity brothers have been asking me out of it on purpose to get out of a road trip. I assume you this was not the case. If you are threatening me with these great calamities and failures that is not that type of boy. Please tell me how I can get out of this bind. Or even better, how I can take a foot injury until pledging is over.

Smooths

Dear Shou,

I know your pledge master personally and he is not of a very gentle disposition. I would not advise you to fake being healthy of you may be injured permanently.

Dear Hortense,

You will notice that this letter is postmarked Parrast Island. This thing started out as a joke, but the story has gone too far. You see, my fraternity brothers took me on a real road trip last week. After I got out of the car and had walked a few hundred yards I heard this video cry out, "that -- who goes there?" When I attempted to tell him who I was and what I was doing, he ran away to see this weirdos... . To cut a long story short, I've been on KP for three days now. Every time I open my mouth, they threaten me with the stockade. They won't believe that I'm not a marine at all. What can I do?

Private KP

Dear Out-Clashed,

Are you trying to shrink your patriotic responsibilities? Take this golden opportunity to serve your country, with a little luck you may even make PLO.

Dear Hortense,

I love a freshman girl who is going with another guy. He Is Grotesque, a favorite of hers. Some comments about her were:

Sunny Ashby: She's really lonely and always has a sparkle in her eyes and a smile on her face.

Nancy Gambol: One of the sweetest girls I've ever met in my life.

Larry Horton: She's the cutest sweetheart and that speaks for itself.

Tom Deckert: One of the proudest people I've ever met--all around good girl.

MISTRELL INTERVIEW

Editor's note: Here's how The New Christy Minstrels feel about their group. They will perform at the Callaway Auditorium on March 1.

Ow, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine! And we're not out! We're nine singin', nine miniatures playing, nine aimless, rain-burdened, irresponsible, ineffaceable performers who somehow perform together from one to five times a day, and not necessarily on the same stage.

How do we keep it up? Our life-on-the-road is as simple as conceivable and black-and-white, really. First of all, we enjoy it.

Next, state (whether it's before a live TV audience or a hip college campus), we take great pride in being straight and joyfully -- no, or not at all. We have absolutely no political leanings, but lots of bounce and all-American energy, We're not trying to make people laugh, we're just trying to make people happy.

When do we have our favorite relaxation? How do we handle all those curler/hair-dryer/ironing? How do we handle all those curler/hair-dryer/ironing board problems? "It was lucky," said Kim Carnes, "that there are two of us. There are times when you just need another girl's shoulder to cry on. Or, if my luggage gets lost, I can borrow Kiyoko's extra out- fit; or she may need me to press her skirt because she slept late."

Humph, Be that as it may, we have come to dedicate this bottle of champagne to the light to moderate losses that our forces have sustained over the past 87 years so that our future will be built on the foundations of our ancestors, of the American military presence in Asia or any concept so far conceived and so easily executed, can long endure. We are not on a road to a battlefield of that magnitude. We are looking for something that can finally culminate in a lasting peace in Japan, with a world government, where we are now convinced in a position to bring to the nation the political stability that is so necessary if we are to begin effectively roll back the aggression from the north.

Excuse me folks, I just received an urgent note. (Oh no, not again!) Things are bad, we're out of 57 different kinds that finally culminated in General Ww. Where General Ww was overthrown by General Hee, who General Hee was overthrown by General Me, who General Me was overthrown by General Ww, where General Ww was overthrown by General Ge, and finally, this 57 different kinds that finally culminated in a lasting peace in Japan, with a world government, where we are now convinced in a position to bring to the nation the political stability that is so necessary if we are to begin effectively roll back the aggression from the north.

And finally, I'm fed up with that kind of idiotic questions emanating from the capitals of this world! And last but not least, I don't care why we are here, I promise you this: we shall not withdraw, I promise that this nation, under me, shall have a new birth of conformity (boy friends, young American energy. We're not going to sit down here! We are going to escalate! This unpatriotic practice of allowing our grandfathers has to stop so that we can build up our troop commitment to 69, 000,000 men, then we will have an adequate strength of our troops to put down the insurrection, and as long as I am president, I'll never, never, never allow this, we shall drop out of those peace talks and that government of cooperation, by which the sake of saving face shall not perish from the earth, although admittedly the population might....

We Like Peggy'

BY LAURA FIELDSTEAL

The Chicken Treat is visited almost every night by an I.C. student with a craving for good Sleevelings. This student is Peggy Brown, Peggy, alias Frenchy, friggle often, loves to play bridge and servants and balsa to bow. She is clothes-conscious and is concerned with what people think. She is the proud owner of a temperamental car that has to be parked in a certain place so that it won't roll away. But she is much more than this.

Peggy is particular about more than clothes, she is conscious about everything she does. This concerns tax/brag-tations or a membership in who's Who. One of the Most Outstanding Seniors and part of the legislative Council. Socially her Greek alliance is to AKO, where she has been treasurer for the past two years. Her brother fraternity has elected her Sweetheart, and she is now for itself. This concern has brought her face.

Peggy is reported to crave cats-s in her eyes and a smile on her face.

She's an out of my life.

Panthers To Seek Revenge Tonight

BY BUDDY SULLIVAN, SPORTS EDITOR

LaGrange will no doubt be seeking revenge for a loss suffered at the hands of the Braves earlier in the season at Carrollton. The score in that game was 72-71 and the Panthers were five points short of an entire game.

West Georgia will bring in a 7-11 record to LaGrange having dropped recent games to Georgia Southwestern, 77-71, and Shorter, 82-63. The Braves victory by a 66-61 score.

In games last week, LaGrange defeated Georg Southwestern while losing to Berry. Against Shorter, 82-63. The Braves victory by a 66-61 score.

Don Hutcherson added to his scoring total by scoring 20 points against Berry.

Shorter, 82-63. The Braves victory by a 66-61 score.

The Sigma Nu pledges ran roughshod over their counterparts from Gamma Phi in a game played Friday afternoon. The score was actually no contest as the final score of 111-42 would indicate.

The closest the Cobalins got was 7-0 early in the game and from that point on it was simply no contest. Sigma Nu ran up a 55-23 lead at half and the lead being faced by the hot hand of Bill McGough and Avenn Garrett. Buddy Sullivan hit 18 points for Gamma Phi in the first half.

The second half was much the same story. Gamma Phi could not seem to find its offense while Sigma Nu raced up and down the court scoring on fast breaks. McGough finished with an even 40 points to lead Sigma Nu while Sullivan popped in 36 for Gamma Phi.

Duckett was the only Panther to score more than 15 points. Duckett tossed in a beautiful hook shot at 13:00 of the first half and the Panthers were off to a fast start as the second half got under way. The second half was somewhat of a reversal of the first, with LaGrange caught in the depths of a cold spell throughout.

The game opening with a rush by both teams scoring almost at will, LaGrange managed to keep a two or three point lead although Piedmont played close behind some fancy shooting by Hugh Franklin.

Tom Duckett tossed in a beauty of a hook shot at 1:45 of the second half and the Panthers were off and running never to be threatened.

LaGrange College, on the strength of a 6-foot 1-inch freshman in the opening line-up, won a 72-59 GKC victory over Piedmont Saturday in a game played in the Panther den.

The Panthers lowered the Lions for the first seven minutes of the game then broke the contest open with a succession of fast breaks. The second half was somewhat of a reversal of the first, with LaGrange unable to keep a two or three point lead and running never to be threatened.
