Organization For Self-Study Announced

LaGrange College is now preparing for the Self-Study program that most colleges participate in every ten years.

In a letter dated November 19, 1969, Dr. John G. Barker, Associate Executive Secretary of the Commission on Colleges, wrote as follows: "I hope you will agree to calendar the Self-Study for LaGrange College to coincide with a seminar visit in the fall of 1971. This would coincide with probability of accreditation at the annual meeting of the committee for the 1971-72 academic year. It also gives you the tenth anniversary of your last reaffirmation. Unless there are most compelling reasons for changing the date we like to adhere to a two-year cycle."

Dr. C. Lee Harewell, Academic Dean of the College announced that LaGrange has accepted these dates and that the committees listed below have been selected in preparation for the Self-Study. Members of the Academic Council and the Steering Committee participated in the formation of the committees. The President and Academic Dean will serve as ex officio members of the Steering Committee. Members of the Administration: Academic Team, Business Manager, Director of Development, Dean of Students, Registrar, Director of Alumni Activities and Librarian will serve as resource members of the committees dealing with areas of their special responsibilities for each committee are indicated.

Ike Flock sponsors Chapel Programs

LaGrange College does offer some extra programs of which most students do not take advantage. One of these extra programs is the required chapel on alternate Wednesdays sponsored by the Inter-Faith Council.

Mr. [Name] wrote as follows: "I hope you participate in every ten years."

On January 14th, Jimmy Smith gave a sacred concert in Dobbs Auditorium. Everyone enjoyed the program, and found it meaningful.

On January 24th, David Corless, a former LaGrange College student and basketball player, spoke to the students at chapel. This was quite a program, and those not present really missed something. Mr. Corless was a former member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes at Auburn.

If you are interested in participating in any of these programs, please contact the Inter-Faith Council.

"This is the dawning of the age..."

Yeah, it's about time for the dawning of a new age. There is a lot wrong with this one, and so we've set out to make some changes. We're tired of the old way, tired of believing in high ideals but not practicing them. We have been shown too much hypocrisy that we have become disgusted. So now, we're going to make some changes.

This is reflected in our songs: "The dawning of the age", "give a damn about your fellow man", "Yeah, it's about time for the old way to change, to go constructively about putting the ideals. Or are we going to see the dawning of a new age where these ideas are practices...?"

We're tired of the old way, of not practicing what we believe. Are we going to see the dawning of a new age where the ideals are practiced, or is it the old way still? Are we going to go through the old hypocrisy in a new Hair-do, a short skirt, put a protest sign in our band and let it scream about the ideals. Or are we going to decide what we believe and then proceed constructively about putting our ideas into practice. It's a good question. I offer no answers but those I decide for myself. The question is there for each of us to decide.

DEAR MOM AND DAD
A Second Letter

Editors note: This letter was received anonymously through Campus Mail in answer to an article in last week's HTN. Both letters are submitted at the option of the writer, not the HTN staff.

I just thought I'd write and express my thoughts on the happenings around here. You know how all my friends from high school adjusting to having to travel across town in order to get to school? I know that some of them won't like it too well because they had their heart set on graduating from high school together. I guess the tradition and spirit will never be the same. We must be pretty lucky being in college and not having to worry about it, huh?

It's a lot different being in college, though. Here at school, we get along just great even though it's predominantly white. The colored students don't mind being part of the minority. They've still treated friendly and have the same opportunities as the rest, with the exception of getting into fraternities. But then it's my understanding that most fraternities don't accept colored people as members. I don't know the brother's fault, though. That's just a long standing rule of a private organization and there's nothing that can be done about it. You can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink.

I was disgusted when I read a story in the school newspaper the other day. It accused the school of being totally discriminate towards the Negro. It's not true because every day I see black and white students conversing on campus. Negroes certainly aren't being treated as inferiors and are not discouraged from competing in school activities. They appear to be very active in intramural sports.

There are many other activities which I'm sure they would be welcome in if only they would indicate so. Most organizations do accept Negroes but they are very few.

I just thought I'd write to see our school to appear as "the last of the anti-Negro Colleges" because it isn't. Every white student here, including myself, has come to accept the black student for what he or she is. If I had just one word to describe the whole situation, it would be, "get off of the white people's back.

A CHRISTIAN WITNESS
by Gene Collum

Dr. Henry has recently written a column for a newspaper in which he lambastes those who have tried to turn the Bible and its precepts into a new side-shows in the name of peace. He says that most of his friends would say, "Am. I'm tired of old men trying to relate to the younger generation by making fools out of themselves. I'm tired of preachers who think youth won't listen to the preaching of the old people. I get sick of the mass flow of sermons on the professions of Simon & Garfunkel, I like Simon & Garfunkle, but I don't think they've yet taken the place of Jesus Christ. I don't think most young people think so, either. It's just a bunch of nuts trying to fool youth into thinking that they can preach "young." It is astounding to observe the growth patterns of Denominations. Those who preach the Gospel with zeal and understanding are growing. They are constantly adding young people. One example is the Church of the Nazarene. They added 228,601 to their Sunday School rolls, a 29% increase in the last 10 years that is without a doubt a fantastic growth. School enrollment has been increasing at a half a million a year. The Church is growing in the places that have practiced the "way out" stuff. Don't fall into the trap of considering things to say to the whole situation, it would be, "get off of the white people's back."

LATEES TO THE EDITOR

Within the past several years, the good name of LaGrange College has suffered tremendously at the hands of some unidentified students. It is tremendously progressive to allow given you to reveal the facts, to condone actions by students which can only have a detrimental effect on the college, to allow a small minority to run the school in place of the administrative official. Those conditions are becoming more and more the case at LC.

Sections of one's new dream should be labeled a disaster area. Those holes in walls, doors, facilities have been dismantled and carried away. What goes next — the heating system?

The prevailing attitude on campus appears to be "so what!" and this should be changed so that an LC degree will continue to mean something. It is unfortunate that the surrounding community is beginning to use the name of the college as a dirty word. Why should wholesale destruction of the college be allowed on this campus? Why should the actions of a minority of students be so readily vandals be allowed on this campus? Why should anyone want to donate money (much less $9 million) or send their children to a school which condones by inaction anything to the detriment of the majority of students?

which are wrong, but none of which is a substitute for the preaching of the Gospel as far as I am concerned. The tragedy of all this is that it was not the secular world which enlightened me to the error of my ways, but those within the Methodist Church. The books which I read in the Holy name of Academia, Social Gospelia, and Liberalia, all of which are good fabrics, but not the one to which I have given my heart. I hope this old boy has got to preach

In late intramural action, a three-way tie for first place has developed as a result of games between Kappa Sigma and Beta Rho, and between Pi Kappa Phi and Kappa Sigma.

In a game last Thursday, Beta Rho slid past Kappa Sig 41-40 in what was probably the wildest game of the year. Kappa Sig came out strong and ran up a 16-2 lead. Beta Rho raced right back to lead 21-17 at the half. At the start of the second half, Kappa Sig regained its momentum once more and held a lead of six or seven points until about two minutes to go when Beta Rho used a full court press to get themselves back in the game. Bill McGough hit a jump shot with six seconds left to win it for Kappa Sig.

Just like Thursday's game, the momentum swapped sides continuously throughout the contest. Kappa Sig came out strong and scored the first five points of the contest. However, Pi Kapp showed why they are one of the big three by coming back to grab a 15-10 lead. Kappa Sig then toughened up and ran to a 28-22 halftime lead.

In the second half, Pi Kapp pushed hard and the game was tied late in the contest, setting up George Courtright's game-winning free throw.

George Courtright and Pug Hitt each hit 14 points for their respective teams. As things stand now, Pi Kapp has defeated Beta Rho 56-37, Kappa Sig 41-40 and Kappa Sig beat Pi Kapp 43-42. The competition could not be any closer between these three teams. There is no way to determine any favorite for the title at this time.

Thursday, Feb. 12, will be a special game day for Beta Rho and Pi Kappa Phi. The winner will have a definite advantage in the race. Right now, however, Kappa Sig would appear to have the most momentum.

At this time, Bill McGough of Beta Rho, is the leading scorer with a twenty point average. Robert Wood of Pi Kapp and Dave Long of Kappa Sig are in a real battle for the rebounding lead. Beta Rho is the leading offensive team. Kappa Sigma has the best defensive average. Pi Kapp is the leading team in the rebounding department.

In last week's action for the basketball teams, the Panthers continued their losing ways by dropping games to West Georgia 58-13 and Valdosta State 50-46. Their losing string is now five straight, and the Panthers have a chance to increase it to the longest of the year (they lost six straight earlier). Their overall record is now 4-13 and it appears that the team is headed for the school's worst season ever.

It is amazing to see the team gain with every game that they lose. What are the reasons behind this team doing so poorly? This was supposed to be a team that had the best material ever at LaGrange College. Everybody has his opinion about what is the matter with the team. I intend to offer my own opinion, which hopefully can be printed without being undiplomatic.

First, a problem that many are not even aware of definitely needs changing. That is the amount of money that the Athletic Department has with which to give scholarships. How can anybody reasonably expect a coach to build a team with six seconds left to win it for Kappa Sig.

The difference that was the equal of all expectations. The difference was the slightest of all margins - one point, 43-42 in favor of Kappa Sigma. George Courtright made a free throw with six seconds left to win it for Kappa Sig.

In an All-Star game last Saturday, our LC All-Stars defeated the LaGrange All-Stars 62-59. Dave Long of Kappa Sig led the scoring with 17 points, followed by Russell Holden of Beta Rho with 10.

SPORTS FLASH

Tuesday night, the Panthers defeated Mercer University by a score of 87-76 for their fifth win of the season. The win also broke a five-game losing streak and was the highest point total of the year for the Panthers. The win avenged an earlier loss at Macon which Mercer won by a score of 106-76.

Why is it that many people are quick to credit the campus of Emory University for proclaiming that "God is Dead" but do not give the campus of LaGrange College it's fair recognition for claiming killed him?

Another group of students could possibly best be described as the "just don't care" variety. They sit in class, they sit in the student center, they sit in movie theaters and they sit in front of their television sets. They do not sit in the library studying. Later they sit in the examination room, and, still later, some of them sit in rice paddies.
